Lack of Funds Halts City Fire Pensions

AUDITOR PUTS FUND'S PLIGHT UP TO COUNCIL

Kelley Reveals Situation In Heated Clash With Mayor Over City Finances.

BOTH OFFER TO MAKE BET

Council Agrees to Take $500 From General Fund to Buy New Fire Hose.

For the first time in its history, the city of Mansfield will be unable to make the regular fire department pension payment this month and will make none at all in December, unless council transfers money to meet the emergency.

This situation came to light last night during a heated discussion at a special council meeting, over the state of the city's finances, and was revealed by Auditor Paul L. Kelley.

Only $584 Left In Fund.

Kelley said today that the pension fund shows a balance of $584.55, while the scheduled November pension payment—to eight retired firemen and one widow—is $835, with the same amount due in December.

"We'll allot the $584," Kelley said today, "and after that it will be up to council to find money for any further payments."

Discussion of appropriating funds for the purchase of new fire-hose precipitated the argument over city finances, during which Kelley and Mayor Earl A. McFarland engaged in a sharp exchange and wound up by offering to bet each other on the status of the city's finances.

Council took no action on the pension situation, but finally agreed unanimously to take $500 from the unappropriated general fund to buy new fire-hose, to replace lines that are worn out.

Replaces 1,250 Feet.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger had asked an appropriation of slightly more than $1,000, which he said would be sufficient to buy 2,500 feet of new line. With the $500 appropriation, the fire department will be able to replace only about 1,250 feet of worn out hose.

Kelley had previously pointed out to council that the unappropriated general fund showed a balance of only $1,100, and Councilman C. N. Shultz had warned council that it should proceed cautiously with expenditures, because of the number of bills

Wake Up At 3 A. M. Tomorrow and See Eclipse of Moon

DELAWARE—(AP)—A lunar eclipse, the only one that can be seen during 1937, will be visible throughout the United States early tomorrow, according to Dr. Ernest Cherrington, jr., astronomer at Perkins observatory of Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State universities here.

The moon will begin to move into the earth's shadow at 2:37 a. m., (eastern standard time), and the dark portion which appears to be gouged out will increase steadily in size until 3:19 a. m. By this time the earth's shadow will have encroached upon the moon's disc to a distance approximately one-sixth of the moon's diameter, Dr. Cherrington said. The shadow will leave at 4 a. m.

Eclipses of the moon are less numerous than those of the sun, Dr. Cherrington pointed out, although they are observed more often from a given place on the earth's surface than are those of the sun. Lunar eclipses, he said, are visible wherever the moon is above the horizon at the time of the eclipse whereas the path of a total solar eclipse covers only a small portion of the earth's surface.

FIGHTS OUSTER

Suspended London Prison Official Files Mandamus Suit.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Howard G. Robinson, suspended superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification, today had filed a mandamus suit in the district court of appeals here against Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director, asking reinstatement to his position.

Robinson was placed under a 30-day suspension Nov. 10 by the welfare director. A. L. Hollinsworth was appointed acting superintendent.

No. 1 Taxpayer Dies

SOLOMON ABY

SOLOMON ABY DIES AT AGE 96

County's No. 1 Taxpayer Had Suffered Broken Leg In Fall Five Months Ago.

Solomon Aby, who was 96 and for years Richland county's No. 1 taxpayer, is dead.

Death came to him early today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. W. Cook, in Mifflin township, and was attributed to shock resulting from a fall last June, in which Mr. Aby suffered a broken leg, and the infirmities of his advanced age.

Mr. Aby, who was for years one of the county's most successful farmers, came into the public limelight through his habit of always being the first resident of the county to pay his taxes. Invariably, until his injury made it impossible, he was the first person to appear at the county treasurer's office on the first day of tax collecting periods. Even after he was injured, he still managed to be the first to pay his taxes, sending the money to the treasurer's office with Anton Moritz, courthouse custodian, and a close friend.

Mr. Aby always walked from his home, on the Wooster road near the junction with Route 39, a distance of two miles. Inclement weather couldn't deter him.

He suffered his fall last June in his home, and was in the hospital for nearly two months. On leaving, in August, he went to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Cook, where he had lived since. His injury, however, kept him

CALLS JURY

Cuyahoga Prosecutor Acts In Alleged Union Racketeering.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Chief Assistant County Prosecutor Charles J. McNamee announced today that the county grand jury would meet in special session tomorrow to consider evidence of widespread labor union racketeering gathered by Safety Director Eliot Ness.

At least seven out-of-town witnesses—including business men who, Ness said, were forced to quit Cleveland under "pay off" pressure—are scheduled to appear.

To protect the witnesses against possible threats or reprisals, no subpoenas were issued. Ness said the irate business men had consented to appear voluntarily.

CALLS 'HEADS,' WINS

Candidate Who Demanded Recount Victor In Clerk Contest.

J. H. Wiles, clerk of Lexington, called "heads" when County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott threw a coin against the wall of the board of elections office last night and won his post for another two years.

The coin decided a tie race for the clerk's job, in which Wiles and his opponent, Robert Lawrence, each polled 125 votes.

The incident, for which Marriott served as the referee, followed the second recount of ballots cast Nov. 2 for the clerk's office in Lexington.

Gets Back Deposit.

Along with the office, Wiles also won back his $10 deposit which he made with the board of elections when he asked for the recount.

Lawrence, in his early twenties, had received one more vote than Wiles in the official count, but three disfigured ballots which were lost for two days and later found in the clerk of court's office, figured in making the vote a tie.

Only one of the three ballots, however, was declared legal by the elections board, and it was for Wilse. Its legality had been questined by the Lexington precinct judges because the voter's preference had been indicated with a check mark and not with the customary x.

Want It Settled.

Asked by George C. Balliet, president of the board of elections, if they wanted to wait out the five days before the winner would be declared, both Wiles and Lawrence said they preferred to have the question settled at once.

Wiles asked for the recount early last week, but the official results were delayed until last night because of the missing ballots, which had been taken to the clerk of court's office by mistake with the county poll books for safekeeping

"Facts in the case have completely exonerated the Lexington election officials of any blame either for the ballots held out or for the loss of the ballots," Balliet said. "The books turned in by the Lexington judges were among the best we have ever received at the election board office."

WORE WIG THAT COST $50,000

Leslie Carter's Carrot-Red Hair False and Expensive.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Now it can be told.

That six-foot torrent of carrot-red hair worn by the late Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress—it was the envy of women of two continents—was false, and it cost her $50,000.

Hair merchant Albert Simonson disclosed today that the actress, during her 16 years on Broadway, bought ten new sets of hair, paying $3,000 each time. She also paid $20,000 for repairs.

Simonson, who obtained Mrs. Carter's locks from peasant girls in Austria-Hungary, said false hair also had helped make public idols of Lillian Russell, Richard Mansfield and Jeanne Eagels.

3-Hour Drama Wins Applause For Players In Season's Debut

An intensely interesting play, one of the best casts of character players ever assembled for an amateur production here, an audience of more than 700, plus capable and intelligent directing, combined last night to launch the Mansfield Community Players on their 12th season with colors flying.

The play "Libel," by Edward Wooll, was a mystery drama unfolded in an English courtroom, and accomplished the seeming impossible in theatrical productions—three hours of all talking and little action held the audience and kept it in suspense throughout every line of dialogue.

The story concerns a libel case in which an English newspaper printed a story attacking the identity of Sir Mark Lodden, member of parliament, claiming he was a deserter from the Canadian army, a bigamist and had perpetrated a cruel fraud on the woman he married and their son. The fantastic accusation is born out by a long succession of witness and the nobleman is proved a murderer and a fraud in court, so that his wife and his family denounce him. The climax, just before the case goes to the jury, is swift, intensely dramatic and stirring, and proves beyond a doubt that Lodden has a right to his title and his family.

Ben Goodenough did a very fine characterization as Lodden, the maimed and shell-shocked war veteran, at no time over playing a difficult role, but two character players might have walked

After Battle of 72 Long Days

Typical Japanese jubilation is expressed in the waving weapons of these soldiers from Nippon as they "banzai" in front of the ruined administration building of the North station in Shanghai, their objective in a battle that lasted 72 days. Note the Japanese flag flying from the roof over the building.

22,000 'Relatives' Claim Heirship to $20,000,000

Pennsylvania Bars Further Claims to Estate of Rich Widow After 1,000 More Join 'Gold Rush' In Week.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Pennsylvania closed the door today on further claimants to the $20,000,000 snuff fortune left by Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett seven years ago.

Nearly 1,000 claimants joined the "gold rush" in the last week before the state's legal deadline of seven years for filing estate claims. This brought to approximately 22,000 the number of persons claiming kinship to the recluse widow, whose will in 1921 disposed of only $62,500 of the immense holdings passed on to her by her husband, Walter E. Garrett, who died in 1895

Husband Cautions Her.

"Make your will at once," the husband cautioned her in a letter shortly before his death.

Last month, Mrs. Garrett's body was disinterred at the request of her namesake, Mrs. Henrietta Garrett Ferguson, who asserted she witnessed a later will in 1924 that she thought a servant might have placed in the woman's coffin. Mrs. Ferguson was a beneficiary under the first will.

This quest ended the same as countless others—without success. The dismal home from which the widow seldom set foot in her last years had been searched minutely before.

STAYS IN BED

Roosevelt Still Has Fever From Tooth Infection.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt still had a slight temperature from an infected tooth today and doctors ordered him to stay in bed.

All engagements, including a press conference postponed from yesterday, were cancelled for the second successive day.

A farm speech the president was to have delivered at Mt. Vernon on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the establishment of the department of agriculture and land grant colleges was turned over to Secretary Wallace to read for him.

White House officials reported the president had a restful night after a sleepless one Monday night.

Lieut. Com. Arthur H. Yando, naval dentist, treated the ailing tooth again this morning.

HIT 'SCALPERS'

Harvard Students Protest $50 Fee For Yale Game Ducats.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass —(AP)— Speculators with Harvard-Yale football tickets today were driven to cover by "sandwich men", bearing signs which read: "Scalp the Scalpers. Scalpers are unfair to Harvard men."

The picketing was conducted by two Harvard students, who reported speculators were asking as much as $50 for a pair of seats for Saturday's game.

RULES IN RAZOR DEATH

SPRINGFIELD— (U.P.) —A verdict of suicide because of domestic difficulties was returned today by the coroner in the death of Cassius Swartzbaugh, 45, who slashed his throat with a razor yesterday.

AIMEE SCORED BY TRIAL JUDGE

She'll Have To Pay $3,000-a-Year Lawyer She Doesn't Want.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Aimee Semple McPherson emerged from her latest lawsuit today with a $3,000-a-year attorney she does not want and a judicial rebuke for airing family squabbles in court.

Judge Joseph Vickers, upholding Jacob Moidel's suit to have his contract as Angelus Temple attorney declared valid, made this barbed comment yesterday:

"It is a sad state of affairs when a family brings its disagreements into court . . . especially when that family is connected with religious organizations. . . . No amount of money could . . . justify this action."

TINY BABY DIES

JAPANESE SLIP BACK AS CHINA PUSHES DRIVE

Thousands of Fresh Troops March to Battle Along 'Hindenburg Line.'

NANKING EVACUATION ON

Government Offices Move From Capital as Chinese Launch Fight to 'Last Man.'

SHANGHAI —(AP)—Heavily reinforced Chinese armies struck back at Japanese invaders today in a counter-attack along the "Hindenburg" line defending Nanking, some 125 miles away.

Thousands of fresh troops from the interior marched eastward to bolster Chinese forces southeast of the capital. At the same time, civilians fled from Nanking to the west and the evacuation of government offices was under way.

Won't Compromise.

Chinese commanders said the counter-attack had permitted them to form new lines and declared:

"We will not capitulate or compromise with Japan. We will fight to the last ditch."

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had several hundred thousand trained troops at his disposal. A force of 150,000 Szechwan province warriors arrived at Nanking from the upper reaches of the mighty Yangtze. West of the capital there was a ceaseless stream of traffic—civilians evacuating to the interior and troops marching to the front.

In North China the famous Communist eighth army harassed communication lines and garrisons of the Japanese. Commanders here disclosed that the same tactics would be used if Japanese succeeded in crossing the Yellow river and taking Tsinanfu, Shantung province capital.

Japs Push South.

Japanese forces pushed southward in Shansi province, the main body heading for Lingfeng, new seat of the provincial government after the evacuation of Taiyuanfu.

Evacuation of 70 American, 38 British and 100 German subjects was being arranged by American and foreign embassies, but only a few ships remained in Nanking's harbor to carry refugees to safety.

DROPS 2 TRAINS

B. & O. Action Will Affect Handling of Mail.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today announced the discontinuance of two trains now making daily stops in Mansfield, to become effective Monday, Nov. 22.

Trains to be taken off the line are No. 47 and No. 48, running between Newark and Sandusky through Mansfield. The former now arrives at 10:55 a. m., and No. 48 at 6.56 p. m.

The railroad also announced additional stops of train No. 46 arriving in Mansfield at 8 a. m. Effective Monday this train stops at Lexington, and makes flag stops at Bellville and Butler.

Mail carried by the two trains to be taken off the line probably will be transferred to a postoffice star route, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said today.

FIREMEN HURT AS FLAMES DESTROY BUSINESS AREA

Score Injured When Draft Causes Fire To Shoot Out Toward Crowd; Buildings Gutted, Fear Collapse of Walls As Officials Study Cause of Blaze.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Fire that destroyed a half-block of business establishments on North High street in the heart of Columbus early today caused damage unofficially estimated at $500,000 or more and resulted in slight injuries to more than a score of firemen.

Before being brought under control at daylight, the flames burned out the five-story building occupied by the F. W. Woolworth company and spread past a firewall into the four-story F. and W. Grand company building next door.

Firemen said walls of both buildings were dangerously insecure and discussed the possibility of dynamiting them. (In February, 1936, six firemen were killed by falling walls after a fire at the Odd Fellows hall was brought under control.)

Fire Chief E. P. Welch said later, however, that explosives would not be used.

"We're taking no chances on those walls, though," he declared as he warned all his 150 or more men to a safe distance. They continued to play heavy streams of water into the ruins.

"One person's estimate of the damage is as good as another," said the chief, surveying the scene.

Hits Legion Club.

Places destroyed, besides the Woolworth and Grand stores, included clubrooms of Franklin post No. 1 of the American Legion, a jewelry store, a photo studio, dentist's office, tobacco shop, and several mercantile storage rooms.

Every piece of Columbus fire-fighting equipment was used in subduing the blaze, a scanty two blocks north of Ohio's state capitol.

Fire companies from Delaware, Worthington, Grandview, Upper Arlington, Reynoldsburg and other adjacent towns were called to provide protection for other parts of the city. One Delaware pumper company aided at the fire itself.

Originating apparently in the basement of the Woolworth store, the fire was discovered about 10:25 p. m. last night, but at first did not seem of serious proportions.

O. P. Frede, Woolworth manager, said that he and three employes were working on Christmas stock when they noticed smoke seeping through the first floor. A police patrolman turned in an alarm as they groped outside.

Frede said he did not know how the fire could have started.

SENATE UPSET BY FILIBUSTER

Southern Lawmakers Seek to Block Vote on Lynching Bill Through Oratory.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A southern filibuster against anti-lynching legislation upset the senate program today, shattering Democratic lines almost at the start of the special session.

The apparently unorganized attempt to block the measure, passed by the house last summer, quickly gained momentum after Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.) sought yesterday to call the bill up for debate.

Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) led off. He talked at length and then sparred for time by having a clerk read a 1935 address by Justice Hugo L. Black (then an Alabama senator) opposing a federal anti-lynching law.

A half dozen other southern Democrats were ready to follow Connally. They indicated they would carry on the debate for a few days, perhaps until the senate agriculture committee completes its farm bill.

Democratic Leader Barkley had tried unsuccessfully to persuade anti-lynching sponsors to let the government reorganization bill have precedence The latter is the only measure on the president's four-point program which is in shape for debate.

Once the filibuster was begun, however, Barkley and some proponents of the anti-lynching bill appeared disposed to let its foes talk themselves out. Senator Van Nuys (D.-Ind.), a co-author of the measure, said at least 70 senators would vote for it.

Barkley predicted a vote would be reached late in the week, thereby removing a major obstacle from the path of the administration program

RECOVERS FROM FALL

COLD, SNOWY

Wintry Weather to Remain, Says Forecast.

With the temperature just under the freezing mark, and snow flurrying around throughout the day, the weather assumed a really wintry appearance today, with little indication of change.

The forecast said tonight and Thursday would be fair, with colder weather due tonight.

At noon today the mercury stood at 31, one degree below freezing, and there had been a tenth of an inch of snow during the past 24 hours. The low reading of 30 was registered early this morning.

Average temperatures, according to Observer Otto Sprunger, were about seven degrees below normal.

RULES ON CASE

Supreme Court Turns Back Oil Company's Tax Suit.

COLUMBUS— (AP) —The Ohio supreme court today returned to the common pleas court of Cuyahoga county a suit of the Standard Oil company of Ohio seeking a reduction in the tax valuation on its real estate.

Common pleas court was instructed to determine on its merits the company's contention that the state tax commission erred in refusing to reduce the valuation of its property from $8,010,030 to $3,641,231.

Joan Tells of 2 Aims—Happy Domestic Life, Right Pictures

EDITOR'S NOTE: Joan Blondell, famous motion picture star and wife of Dick Powell, talks of marriage and her baby in this intimate story written by a News-Journal staff writer, who was a guest of the Powells in Cleveland Monday. The story on Powell, who is the featured attraction on the entertainment program at the Cleveland Auto Show this week, appeared in yesterday's News-Journal.

By JANE WILLIAMS

The first question that everyone asks about Joan Blondell is: "Is she as pretty and as cute off the screen as on?" It was the one question that popped into my mind as I stood for an instant outside the door of the Dick Powell-Joan Blondell apartment at the Lake Shore hotel in Cleveland, where Powell is appearing this week at the Auto Show.

And then the door opened and the answer was "yes and no" I had expected a Cute Little Thing

Grand Duke Weds Despite Crash Killing Royal Family

BLAME FOG IN FATAL PLUNGE OF AIRLINER

Belgium Officials Open Probe of Mishap; Newlyweds Hurry to Wreck Scene.

LONDON —(AP)— Grand Duke Ludwig Von Hesse Bei Rhein, second cousin to Britain's King George, was married today to Miss Margaret Campbell Geddes in a private ceremony cloaked with the tragedy of an air crash that killed nearly all the bridegroom's family.

After the ceremony at St. Peter's church in Eton Square, the mourning newlyweds started their honeymoon with a trip to Ostend, Belgium, to claim the bodies of the duke's mother, brother and his brother's wife and sons and take them to the family seat at Darmstadt, Germany.

Plane Hits Chimney.

They were among 11 persons killed yesterday when a London-bound airliner crashed in flames near Ostend in a fog, as they were en route to London for the wedding. The plane hit a chimney.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent and German Ambassador Joachim Von Ribbentrop headed the wedding guest list. The ceremony had been set for Saturday but was moved forward because of the tragedy. It already had been postponed on account of the death of Ludwig's father a week before.

The bride, who became a Grand Duchess by today's ceremony, is the former Margaret Campbell Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to the United States.

The crash left the 29-year-old Ludwig as the only surviving male member of his branch of the family. He became the third grand duke of his line within a week. The 16th century family has close blood ties with every reigning house in Europe.

The bride and most of the women guests wore black at the wedding. Ludwig gave the nazi salute as he left St. Peter's after the ceremony.

Wreckage Guarded.

An inquest was underway at Ostend. A heavy police guard was thrown around the charred wreckage of the plane. It was disclosed that the pilot had not acknowledged a radio message from the airport informing him that fog had cut visibility to 600 feet.

The victims of the Ostend crash were:

Grand Duke George Donatus Von Hesse Bei Rhein, 31; George's 26-year-old wife, the former Princess Cecile of Greece and Denmark and a first cousin of the Duchess of Kent; their sons, Prince Ludwig Ernst, 6, and Prince Alexander George, 4; the Grand Duke's mother, the Dowager Grand Duchess Eleonore, 66, widow of Grand Duke Ludwig; Baron Von Riedessel Zu Eisenbach, marshal of the Grand Duke's court; a German glider expert named Martens; Lina Hahn, a maid; the three-man crew of the airliner.

Arctic Ice Floe Carries Russians Toward Greenland

MOSCOW—(AP)—Four Russian Arctic campers, riding an ice floe down from the north pole, reported by radio today that they were only about 125 miles off the northeastern coast of Greeland.

In Moscow, Dr. Otto Schmidt, leader of the aerial expedition that established the camp 13 miles from the pole nearly six months ago, said the four men probably would be taken off in January before their ice raft reached open sea and danger of breaking up.

The campers had drifted more than 400 miles. It was likely icebreakers would pick them up between Greeland and Spitzbergen.

Now that the direction of the polar drift is known, Dr. Schmidt said, Soviet scientists were planning to fly two and possibly three sets of campers to the far side of the pole and let them drift across it about 200 miles apart.

Ernest Krenkel, camp radio operator, broadcast a description of life in the ice floe hut. He said it looked like a sugar-coated cake, surrended by ice hummocks and snowdrifts.

Up and Down the Street

At least one Mansfield youngster was thrilled today over the visit Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, noted Arctic explorer, paid the city last night. Although the youth did not see the famous visitors, he has in his collection of souvenirs a note of greeting from MacMillan with the explorer's signature. The boy's father, waiting until MacMillan had completed his talk before the Foremen's club at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, obtained the note and autograph.

Todd C. Strohmenger, 35 Henry street, is pretty much elated over the fact that next year's edition of Crown Anthology of Verse will contain his poem, "Old Doc Stork," inspired by the Dionne quintuplets' arrival. Todd is 13 years old, a tuba player in the Hedges school orchestra, and a member of the Junior Music Study club. His talents are diversified, for he also plays the piano, and in his "literary moments" writes poetry that is good enough to make the Crown Anthology.

They're claiming that Schlegel required 13 shots at rabbits on a hunting trip yesterday, and finally got three of them.

And because none of the students wants to be known as a goop, the books are getting better care.

ABOLISH POST

Solons Do Away With Job of Sidewalk Inspector.

With a lone dissenting vote, cast by George C. Kyle, city council last night abolished the position of city sidewalk inspector.

The position created by Mayor Earl A. McFarland early last year, has been held for the last two months by James Warrack, member of the Richland county Republican executive committee. Warrack was appointed by the mayor following the resignation of Al Strachen who held the position from the time of its creation.

Council members explained their action by stating that the city had done no sidewalk repair for the last two months and probably do none before spring. They said that they felt, that due to the city's financial status that the $150 paid he inspector could be used for more vital purposes.

JAIL FUGITIVE GIVEN FREEDOM

Man Who Escaped 33 Years Ago Wins Leniency.

SUNBURY, Pa. — (AP) — The home town where a 16-year-old boy escaped from jail in 1904 decided today he could keep the freedom he has had for 33 years.

District Attorney Robert Fortney sai dno action would be taken to bring back Harry Burns, 49, a respected citizen and father of eight children, who surrendered in Chicago yesterday, saying he had to get his unserved sentence off his mind.

Fortney said Judges C. K. Morganroth and H. W. Cummings concurred in his decision not to return Burns to complete the three and one-half year term imposed in 1904 for knocking the locks off gum vending machines in a railroad station.

FEW CLAIMS OF REACHING NORTH POLE TRUE, EXPLORER CONTENDS

Nearly 200 members of the Mansfield Foremen's club heard a colorful story last night of life in the far north, related by Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, one of the world's leading explorers and research men.

In an illustrated lecture at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Capt MacMillan, who has been on 16 expeditions into the Arctic regions, told of recovering 22 valuable records, to prove or disprove the claims of other explorers who preceded him into the frozen wastes.

"Since there is nothing to mark the North Pole and explorers must depend on the sun and stars to tell them when they get there, we can reasonably believe that few of the claims of reaching the pole are based on facts," MacMillan said

The pole is under at least two miles of water and because of the constantly moving mass of ice at the top of the world, it is impossible to set up a camp or marker there, he explained.

The records, in the form of letters, notes or remains of lan said.

camps, were recovered on barren islands above the Arctic circle and on the northernmost tip of Greenland.

A letter written in 1881 by a member of the ill-fated Greely expedition to his son was found by MacMillan 28 years later and, following a long search, was returned to the son in Arizona. A. W. Greely, leader of the expedition was found near death three years after he went into the north. He died recently in Washington at the age of 93, MacMil-

Describing the Eskimos as one of the most intelligent and sturdy races of the earth, MacMillan said they furnish proof that man's intelligence has shown little or no improvement in the last 5,000 years.

"The Eskimo people have had no contact with the outside world, many of them believing that they are the sole inhabitants of the globe," he declared, "and science has proved that their customs have not changed in thousands of years."

Making his first trip to the Arctic with Peary in 1909, MacMillan, a native of Cape Cod, Mass., where he still lives, has been on 16 expeditions and plans to leave for the north again next June.

He has never reached the North Pole, he said, coming within a few hundred miles of it on his first trip. Most of his journeys have been in the interests of geographic and scientific research, he said.

Last night's meeting, the second of the fall season for the Foremen's club, was in charge of O. M. Beveridge, president of the organization.

The lecture followed a dinner at the hotel. Bill Grassick's orchestra furnished entertainment on a program arranged by club representatives from the Tappan Stove company.

Police Find Firearms In Raid on Apartment House.

PARIS — (AP)—Authorities today reported five new arrests in the nationwide inquiry into a secret military organization known as "The Hooded Ones" which was uncovered two months ago.

The prisoners were charged with setting up secret arms depots. Minister of Interior Marx Dormoy said the investigation was merely routine but the French press asserted a new attempt against national security had been unearthed.

coming due and the uncertain condition of finances.

Kelley reminded council that it had earlier in the meeting voted a transfer of fire department funds for the purchase of an inhalator, to cost $150, and for the installation of a new clutch in one of the fire trucks, estimated by Service-Safety Director Phlip Wolfe, to cost $285. Council took the money from the personal services (salaries) supplies and light and incidental funds of the department.

"It is unfortunate that such a serious request as that for new fire hose should have to be balked on," Kelley said

It was at this point that he and the mayor engaged in their heated clash.

McFarland claimed that the city had personal tax funds coming from the county, and claimed that advance drafts could be obtained against it.

Taxes Due After First of Year.

Kelley asserted that the personal tax allocation would not be received until after the first of the year.

"As long as I use the fountain pen, the city is going along on a pay-as-you-go basis," Kelley said.

"I don't want to see the city in bankruptcy," the mayor countered, "but I don't think we've reached that point."

"There's no reason why this administration or any other should handcuff its successors." Kelley retorted, apparently referring to the fact that a Democratic administration will succeed the incumbent Republican one on Jan 1, and objecting to the present administration spending money not due until after a new administration takes over city affairs.

The argument continued, and both McFarland and Kelley figuratively offered to get out their checkbooks and lay wagers on the validity of their rival claims as to the city's financial condition.

The mayor submitted figures which he said he obtained from the county auditor showing that the city had $22,000 due in personal tax receipts, and had already collected $71,238 in sales tax receipts.

Kelley disputed the latter figure, and said "If the county auditor said it came over here (to the city) I don't know where it went I'm willing to bet on that, and I'll get out my checkbook and we'll make a little wager on it."

"I can write a check, too," the mayor shot back.

Council President Claude M. Hunter, who had taken no part in the discussion, interrupted with a call for a vote on the fire hose appropriation, cutting short the Kelley-McFarland clash.

The measure then was passed unanimously.

Although council approved the transfer for the purchase of the inhalator and the truck repair, it wasn't done without a bit of criticism from Councilman George Kyle, Kyle, however, voted for the transfer.

"That $285 is a ridiculous sum to spend on a truck 15 years old," Kyle said, "what we need is some new trucks. One of these days the old ones are going to a fire and they'll never get back."

Two other minor fund transfer ordinances were deferred until the regular December meeting.

BELIEVE TRIO WILL ATTEMPT MORE HOLD-UPS

Police Fear Jail-Breaking Gunmen Will Rob Banks to Make Complete Getaway.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Federal, state and city authorities redoubled their search for three escaped kidnapers today, fearing that they would attempt kidnapings and bank robberies to obtain money to make good their getaway.

A network of police was stretched across the state as authorities sought to follow the faint trail left by the convicts—John Oley, Percy (Angel Face) Geary and Harold (Red) Crowley, who "crashed out" of the Onondaga county penitentiary at Jamesville, N. Y., early yesterday morning.

Police were warned they were armed, and that they would fight to the death rather than return to prison to stay perhaps for the rest of their lives for the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, jr., in Albany, N. Y., in 1933.

Seized In Auto.

The search was intensified in the Syracuse area after Henry King, a mechanic, reported to police that three men whom he believed to be Oley, Geary and Crowley had seized his automobile last night. King said the men thrust him into a rear seat, drove to the outskirts of the city but returned when they found state troopers guarding the highway.

"They asked me where I lived," King said. "I told them, and they drove to my home They went in with me and forced my wife to fix them coffee and sandwiches Then they drove back downtown with me, and left me near the railroad station after warning me to keep my mouth shut."

Police immediately began a search of rooming houses and cheap hotels in the belief the kidnapers were hiding out in this area, waiting until the "heat" of the manhunt had subsided.

King said he was positive of his identification of the men.

"They asked me about train service," he said, "and asked me if I had been reading the papers."

King reported the men were heavily armed. One, he said, had two guns, and each of the others had one.

At the time of their escape, the convicts were reported to have had only two guns between them.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Congress May Lead.

THE MOST striking thing about this special session of congress is the change in the atmosphere. How long it will last no one can tell, but certainly it is the first since Mr. Roosevelt became president in which house and senate leaders, taking their cue from him, have not assumed the attitude that business as a whole needed rigid regulation, that successful business men systematically exploited the poor, underpaid labor, sweated little children, generally disregarded "human rights" and deserved, therefore, to be kicked around.

THAT WAS the White House thesis upon which Mr. Roosevelt has steadily harped. The inculcation of that idea has been the principal job of his propaganda agencies and there have been few presidential public utterances in which he has not fostered it. It was the reason for the pillorying of business men before congressional committees, for the dramatic staging of the "tax dodgers drive," for the various punitive measures conceiveed by the Corcoran-Cohen Brain Trust and sponsored by Mr. Roosevelt. An integral part of the old Huey Long soak-the-rich political strategy, it has been at the base of the New Deal effort to array the "Have-Nots" against the "Haves."

AFTER FOUR YEARS of this, it is interesting that this session opens with what seems a partial retreat by the president and certainly a strong reversal of feeling upon the part of congress. So far as the latter is concerned, the "crusading spirit" is dead. It is through with reform and wants to retrench. While there are shrill protests from the radical wing and great pain among the national planners, the whole trend of vocal congressional opinion is for a repeal and modification of onerous tax laws, for the cutting down of expenses, for a balanced budget and the removal of the burdens so enthusiastically imposed on business. In brief, while there are still in congress and around the president men who want to keep their heel on the neck of industry, inflate the currency, pile up the debt and continue along the early Tugwellian lines, the conviction grows that we have been taken too far and in the wrong direction; that unless a halt is called and drastic action taken, disastrous results are likely to ensue. The reasons are clear enough. The business slump has taken the shine off the New Deal, driven home the fact that the harassing and handicapping of industry inevitably reacts most painfully upon the very people in whose welfare the New Deal professes primary concern

AS THINGS STAND, it is not only accurate to say, but quite plain that the desire among Democrats in congress to encourage business, to cut down expenses and refrain from further regulatory legislation is greater than the president's; that they are willing to go farther and faster than the president, despite the conciliatory words of his message and its sounder recommendations. There are for this several explanations. One is the kell-known fact that there has not been a time since 1933 when Mr. Rosevelt could not have led congress more easily in the conservative direction than in the one he took. Another is because members of congress realize that whether Mr. Roosevelt is personally as popular or not, there has been a change in their states and districts toward the New Deal policies; that the business slump is real, that it imposes hardship on the poor and unless checked will react against the administration.

THERE IS STILL another reason—a reversal of direction does not involve for congress the same sort of seeming stultification it does for Mr. Roosevelt. To do the things now that the situation urgently demands and which his own fiscal officials advocate is, in effect, to admit that he has been wrong from the start, that he has made rather a mess of things, that his critics were right and it is now necessary to undo some of the things he has done. It takes a pretty big man to do that kind of thing. In the beginning Mr. Roosevelt claimed to be that kind of man. He said that if the experiments he proposed did not work out "I will be the first to admit the mistake." He has not made good on that. He has not admitted that anything he has done or tried to do was an error—not policies such as the Warren gold policy or the "Satellite Cities," of the Tugwell days, which have been abandoned, or the NRA, or the AAA or the attempt to pack the supreme court, or anything else.

* * *

REGARDLESS of the collapse of many of his schemes and the waste of time, effort and money in others, now wiped out of existence, Mr. Roosevelt's position is that he has made no mistakes, that the recession of business is not the fault of his policies, but of business itself. Faced now with a really desperate state of affairs apparently his pride will not let him whole-heartedly take the steps necessary—and which he knows to be necessary—to deal with it. He cannot bring himself to go "the distance." His friends say "You can't expect him to repudiate himself—he's got to save his face." The question is whether, with the nation on the brink of bankruptcy, preserving the president's pride and saving his face are going to prevent saving the country, no easy thing at best. The really encouraging sign is the demonstration of sentiment among the president's adherents in congress, who are convinced of the vital need for immediate action. It may be that at this session congress will supply the leadership and the president do the following. That would'nt be so much of a change as it might seem—when the record of the last session is considered.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The movie stars who say they want to get away from it all—meaning pursuing fans—could take a lesson from Clark Gable, who really gets.

Gable left here on vacation in a station wagon and old clothes. He took rifles but no razor. Passing through Salt Lake City he got a shave and was recognized. After that he dropped out of sight.

Talbot Jennings, Metro writer, has a brother Charlie in Montana. Charlie used to be a peace officer but now operates a dude ranch. He knows hide-outs in the mountains. He tipped Gable to a few. The star returned seven weeks later, tanned, 12 pounds lighter, the Hollywood atmosphere out of his lungs He had a seven-weeks beard. Charlie Jennings tried to get a picture, but Gable always did say beards—on movie heroes—were unromantic. There isn't any picture. Too bad.

Gable has hide-outs in Southern California, too. He spent two weeks on a non-advertising ranch in the hills above Santa Barbara. Another week went by at a little duck club near there which has only five members—Gable, E. J. Mannix, Jack Conway, Sam Wood and Spencer Tracy.

He was gone for 12 weeks—and his own studio didn't know where he was any of the time!

Several years ago one of those mystery comedies that had been a stage hit was acquired for the movies. It has just been filmed.

The other day the movie producer ran into the fellow who produced it originally on the stage.

"That's great stuff for the first two acts," said the movie man, "but the third act takes a terrible drop."

The stage producer got to thinking.

"Say," he said, "what script did you use? You know the third act was awful until we rewrote it—then it clicked."

The movie man groaned. But it was too late. The picture had been finished—from the original script. Proving that Hollywood is still Hollywood.

Designers Desert Simple Fashion Vogue

Tiring of the recent vogue for simplicity in the feminine wardrobe, designers have added considerable frills to the new styles for the season. Since coats are the first thought in the minds of everybody these days, here are three stunning models Rosemary Lane has chosen a fur coat for outdoor activities. The cream and brown tones of the fur are richly accented by the monotone brown of the dress and accessories. Jane Wyman is wearing a costume in two colors. For days in town she has selected a simple wool crepe dress with darts at either shoulder to give the front of the bodice a note of softness. Fur and fabric are cleverly combined in the town coat chosen by Gail Patrick. The entire back and sleeves are of Persian lamb but the sides have godets of black broadcloth which give the coat an entirely new effect in skirt fullness

Faithful One Finds Girl Prefers Other

By VIRGINIA LEE

M. C. I am so sorry, but you have to give me a little more time to get an answer to you in the column by a special date. Your letter only just reached me, and your answer will thus be late.

M. C. is a boy whose girl friend has the bad taste to prefer another boy to him. It really is bad taste, as the boy she likes is not liked by her family, drinks, and gets her to do so, too, and is of a different religion.

I am sorry about all this, M. C. You have been such a faithful lover it is a shame that the girl's heart does not respond to your wooing. I suppose it is not her fault that she prefers the other man to you. She is so made that he has the appeal for her that you lack. It may be that later on she will realize that she has made a mistake, but when a girl is in love she does not easily see the faults of her beloved.

It will be hard for you to go out with other girls, but I advise you to do it. There is no use being lonely as well as unhappy, although at first when you date another girl you will probably be lonelier than if you stay at home, and miss her more. There are many lovely girls who will sympathize and try to help lighten your burden, however, and if you could take one out occasionally and try hard to enjoy yourself, the time would not seem so long or life so hopeless.

WORRIED VI: You seem to have made a good start at impressing the young man you want to ask you for a date, and I imagine it is only a question of time before he will ask you. However, if you are having a party or gathering of your church organization or group at your home you could ask him to come too. Or when you are dancing together you might very casually ask him to drop in some evening. If he doesn't do so you will know he is not interested in that way, so don't bother with him.

WONDERING: If the man you have been going with for nearly three years is jealous of your new friend, and you want to keep No. 1 I don't see how you can continue to go with No. 2. You may be able to keep them both, and that would be very nice, but not if your first friend is jealous.

How would you feel about it if this boy you have been going with started going out with another girl? If that would not hurt your feelings, all right, then go out with your new friend.

The temperature of the modern house is too hot for the growing of geraniums in the house, and the air too dry. They should be kept in a cool place where there is plenty of moisture in the air. The kitchen window is a good place because the steam from the cook stove provides them with just enough moisture. East and west windows are best.

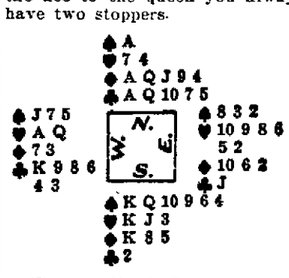
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE RIGHT DECLARER

THAT simple no trump consideration of desiring to be the declarer when you hold plenty of kings or queens, but preferring to have your partner play the hand when you have more than your share of aces, can also apply to a suit bid. If the opening lead comes through a guarded king, it can cost you two tricks right off the reel. If instead in comes up to the king, only one trick is lost at the outset. On a lead through a queen up to an ace, you have only one stopper if the king sits over the queen, but when it comes through the ace to the queen you always have two stoppers.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

In a team-of-four match a slam was reached on this deal at both tables but in different suits. In each case the bidding started with North calling 1-Diamond, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs, South 3-Spades, North 4-Clubs and South 4-Diamonds. At one table North now responded with 5-Diamonds and South 6-Diamonds, but at the other North called 4-No Trump, South 5-Spades and North 6-Spades.

Where North played the hand at 6-Diamonds, a heart was led and the contract was immediately set.

The other South declarer, fearing a lead through his heart suit, decided to bid 5-Spades after the 4-No Trump, to give his partner a chance to see where the safest spot was. Six spades was agreed upon as the final contract and as the lead came up to South it would not have mattered if a heart had been led, as only one trick would have been lost in that suit.

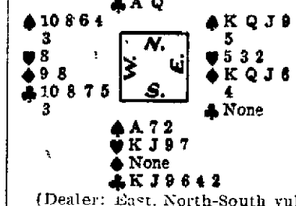
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East opened the bidding with 1-Spade. How can North-South reach the correct contract with their holdings?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 18.

THIS PROMISES to be a day of exceptional opportunities for important coups in business. The prospects are good for speculation, expansion and the co-operation of those in influential positions. Seek favors from employes and those in high places with assurance. Corporations, political and diplomatic as well as secret organizations, will be friendly.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of great progress and prosperity, with new ventures and speculation under presage for expansion. Large corporations and "big business" may be sought for friendly support in furthering meritorious propositions.

A child born on this day may be energetic, ambitious and have excellent qualities for promotion, expansion and high position. It may also have great personal popularity and prestige.

My Neighbor Says:

It is always a good plan to place the piano a few inches from the wall of a room, especially if it is against a damp outside wall. The dampness coming through often ruins the tone of an instrument.

To prevent cornmeal mush from lumping during the cooking mix the uncooked meal with cold water, using 1-3 as much water as meal and then add the boiling water and cook in a double boiler.

Rinse Off All Soap After Bath Ritual

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

ACCORDING to historians, when Rome was at the height of its glory, bathing became so popular that it was made a form of public recreation. Indeed, bathing was considered more of a sport than merely a method of cleansing the body. Huge, elaborate baths were constructed, and Rome had to be supplied with 300,000 gallons of water every single day.

Those old Romans knew what was good for them, not only from the health angle, but from the beauty angle as well. However, the women of Japan are just as wise when it comes to bathing. They have a method that is definitely their own, and it's so excellent that I am going to describe it to you.

The trouble with bathing, as we do it, is that the average individual steps into her tub, scrubs herself and then expects to thoroughly rinse away all lather from her skin with the soapy water in her tub. That's one reason why, so often, a woman's skin becomes dry, rough and itchy. All the soap is not thoroughly rinsed away, and the alkali in it removes too much of the natural oils that help to keep the skin soft, smooth and supple.

The Japanese woman, when bathing, does all her scrubbing before she steps into her tub. Using a small flesh brush and a pure, bland soap, she scrubs her entire body. Tiling space and drainage are both provided for this, in Japanese baths. But we can stand in our bathtub, instead, while doing the scrubbing. If you fear to slip, you can use one of those suction rubber mats on the bottom of the tub.

Rinses in Clear Water.

After the scrubbing, the soapy lather is sponged away, the tub is filled with warm water, and the soaking and rinsing commenced. The Japanese woman relaxes in the warm water for a bit of thorough soaking, then, using a coarse washcloth, she scrubs herself again—without soap this time. And when she leaves the tub, she can be secure in the belief that all the soap has been removed from her skin.

This method of scrubbing first and then soaking and rinsing afterward in your tub of clear water seems to me a very logical manner of bathing. Of course, it does take a little more time than the method that we generally employ, but you can take it from me, a little time invested in careful grooming pays big beauty dividends!

Besides, that nightly cleansing bath should not be taken hurriedly, in slipshod fashion. It should be a leiurely event, a period of complete mental and physical relaxation. Try this method of bathing whenever you possibly can. You'll find that it will not only soothe and rest your tired nerves, but also helps greatly in keeping the skin clear, smooth and velvety.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS I HEARD my mother-in-law's voice questioning Mrs. Ticer about her presence in the guest room, I realized that I had something on my hands far more important than preventing a possible flaring up of the domestic feud existing between Katie and my good neighbor.

Dicky's mother did not mean to be insulting, I knew, but her voice and the manner in which she put her question would have justified a less sensitive woman than Mrs. Ticer in resenting what apparently was a suspicion that she had gone into the guest room for some ulterior purpose of her own.

"Ah!" Katie saw fit to interpose at this moment. "I knew dot—"

It was no time for half measures. On my way to the door, I swerved and put a firm hand over my housekeeper's mouth.

"Don't you dare speak again," I said. "Stay here until I come back."

She gasped but I knew she would obey me, and I went on to the door, unlocked it and went into the hall, closing it firmly after me. I whipped up courage to cope with the situation before me.

For Mrs. Ticer, with her face aflame and her eyes blazing indignation, was facing my mother-in-law militantly.

Thinks She's Accused.

"Mrs. Graham," she was saying, "I've worked for you folks for years, and I've lived a long time, and this is the first time in my life that anybody's ever accused me of stealing things. If you weren't an old woman, I'd—I'd—"

Her fingers were twitching with a clawing motion. I moved to her side and caught her hands in mine firmly while my mother-in-law drew herself up haughtily.

"You are insolent," she said in her best grande dame manner. "I have not accused you of stealing, have not thought of such a thing. I simply asked you what you were doing in the guest room."

"It was the way you said it," Mrs. Ticer said in a much milder tone.

"I'll explain everything, Mother, in a few minutes," I said. "I sent Mrs. Ticer into the guest room. And now Mrs. Ticer, if you'll go along home, I'll be over to see you after a while."

"All right," she said docilely, and scuttled off while I was conscious that my mother-in-law had transferred her inquiry and her resentment to me.

Has Lofty Tone.

"Of course," she said loftily in the injured manner I knew so well, "I must apologize for interfering in the conduct of your house. But I have been left in charge of it for several weeks now, and Mrs. Ticer has been working under my orders. It seemed to me a perfectly natural and justified thing to question her as to her movements. I had no idea she was on this floor at all.

"I came out into the hall simply because I had heard Katie screeching in her usual ear-splitting voice, and thought I could keep her from disturbing you But I will go back now and leave you to the management of your household."

With a swift, silent petition to my guiding star that my truculent Katie would remain where I had left her until I could get back again, I caught my mother-in-law around the waist as she was turning haughtily away from me.

"Please, Mother!" I coaxed "don't be angry. I need you so today. In the excitement of telling you last night about the prospective arrival of Olina and her mother, I forgot to tell you that Mary and Noel are driving down today. I want your advice about dinner. I want to give them their favorite dishes, for Noel must return immediately, his father says. He will have to start back at daylight tomorrow morning."

Anger Is Shifted.

As I hoped, her indignation promptly transferred itself to absent Philip Veritzen.

"That old buzzard!" she declaimed indignantly. "I'll have something to say about that myself. But where is that ape of a Katie? If Mary and Noel the coming this afternoon, she'll have plenty to do, and ought to be getting at it."

"She's in my room," I said grimly, "with instructions to stay there until I get back I did not want Mrs. Ticer and her to meet—you know how they are—so when I heard Katie in the hall, I sent Mrs. Ticer through my closet into the guest room, and told her to go directly home."

"Oh, so that was why she was in the guest room," my mother-in-law said. "Well, Margaret, I can praise your discretion more than your courage. In your place I should have cowed both those quarrelsome women. But you are weak, weak, where your servants are concerned."

THEATER

THIS and That: Eleanor Holm and Glenn Morris, the athlete, made one Tarzan picture, but the experiment will not be repeated. They couldn't get along, wouldn't speak, and when the feminine part of the team popped off publicly about Morris, he refused to pose in any more romantic pictures with her. . . . The costumes for Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette" will be perfect replicas of those worn by the tragic empress who lost her pretty head; even the tiny embroidery figures in portraits are being studied with magnifying glasses and being copied. . . . Mervyn LeRoy is said to be purchasing several of Valentino's silent film stories for Fernand Gravet. . . . Evelyn Brent, star of silent films, is making a long, but apparently successful come back, not as a star, but a featured player.

Perfect Specimen.

When a man is 25 years old, six feet, three inches tall, extremely handsome, has $20,000—and has never had a date in his life, there's something wrong. And in "The Perfect Specimen," it's grandma who is wrong. She's brought the boy up that way, behind the high fences of the old family estate. When a girl like Joan Blondell decides to investigate, nothing can stop her, not even the fence. Errol Flynn as the "Perfect Specimen" and Miss Blondell as the girl who decided he ought to Know About Life, are teamed for this romantic comedy made from the Cosmopolitan story by Samuel Hopkins Adams. The cast guarantees its comedy value, with Allen Jenkins, Edward Everett Horton, Hugh Herbert (as an eccentric poet) and others.

In Kentucky Town.

A sleepy Kentucky town supplies the background for the characters that make up the story told by Irvin S. Cobb's "Judge Priest" and which the late Will Rogers brought to life on the motion picture screen. The shrewd, kindly, humorous character of the judge develops as the troubles of the town are brought before him. A lazy colored boy, played by Stepin Fetchit, provides much of the humor. The picture was an ideal vehicle for Rogers and was one of his most successful. The revival of it is being shown at the Madison today and tomorrow. Rochelle Hudson, Tom Brown and Anita Louise provide romantic interest.

Society Editor.

With Wendy Barrie cast in the role of a wealthy society girl who wins a newspaper in a libel suit and proceeds to run it herself, the rollicking comedy romance, "A Girl With Ideas," is being shown at the Majestic. Two men who have no liking for the change in managers are Kent Taylor who, as the editor, wrote the offending story that brought on the libel suit, and Walter Pidgeon as the publisher who loses his paper to her through the court's decision. Dorothea Kent is the other girl in the romantic foursome. George Arliss in a new characterization, that of a smuggler in "Dr. Syn," English made picture, is the second attraction.

Charlie's Drinking Again.

Charlie Ruggles, known for his roles as a slightly inebriated reporter including his first famous one in "Gentlemen of The Press," is at it again in "Exclusive," the newspaper story which is one of the two features at the Ritz. Only in this story, he isn't funny; he's a broken down old newspaperman who cherishes the high ideals of his profession, ideals which force him to expose his own daughter whose ruthless stories for an opposition paper have caused a man to kill himself. Frances Farmer is the daughter and Fred MacMurray has the romantic male lead. Another grippingly dramatic picture is "They Give Him A Gun," also on the bill, with Spencer Tracy, Gladys George and Franchot Tone.

Tygers Get Ready For Final Tussle

Passes Are Expected To Be Ashland's Chief Threats In Closing Game Saturday.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor

THE strongest grid eleven to represent Mansfield high school since 1931 when the Fisch, Smith, Selby, Brandon and company was running wild on north central Ohio battlefields is making ready to conclude its strenuous campaign at Stadium field Saturday afternoon.

COACH BOLES

While Ashland does not rank as strong as a number of other foes tackled by the Tygers this season, Coach John Longley's proteges may offer the mighty Men of Murphy a fine argument.

Ashland has come back a long way after an unhappy opening. Longley discovered a fine crop of prospects in his reserve squad, and their development has been a major factor in the turn-about-face of the team.

Ashland lacks the power and experience of the Mansfield eleven but is packs a serious threat in its aerial game which has functioned well in late games.

The manner in which upsets have been recorded on the gridiron this fall a victory for Ashland over Mansfield is within the realm of possibility, but the Tygers, of course, will go into the game heavy favorites to repeat their triumph of last year.

Although Mansfield is no longer a member of the N. C. O. conference, the heat of the Ashland rivalry remains, and it is not likely that it will be cooled to any extent in future games.

The Mansfield-Ashland rivalry extends from 1900. The Tygers hold a good-sized edge in the series, but the majority of the games have been hard-fought affairs. The results have not always run true to form, either.

Little to Choose Between Mt. Gilead, Madison As Far as Scores Are Concerned.

SCORE comparisons may not provide a solid foundation on which to determine the probable outcome of a football game, but the fact that Madison and Mt. Gilead, which meet in the latter city Friday to decide the Mid-State league title defeated their common foes by virtually the same margins is interesting.

For instance, the Rams defeated Loudonville, 19-0, and Mt. Gilead trimmed the Red Birds, 20-0. Madison scored one more touchdown against Bellville than the Indians, but the margin was virtually identical. The Frederickmen tripped Bellville, 19-12, and the Indians triumphed 12-7.

Madison and Mt. Gilead scored the same number of touchdowns against Butler, but the Rams added more points on conversions to win 35-7. Mt. Gilead's margin was 33-7.

The Morrow county representatives accumulated more points against Danville, but Madison evened this edge in the Fredericktown melee.

The Indians whipped Danville, 52-13, while Madison took the Knox countians into camp with an 18-0 victory. Against Fredericktown, Madison scored 88 points to establish a new league record, and the Indians tallied 49. The Freds did not score against either team.

According to these figures, it will be rather difficult to select a favorite for their all-important game Friday.

Coach Boles Too Kind-Hearted for His Own Good, Art Murray Believes.

ART MURRAY, who directs the Wooster College news service, believes Coach L. C. Boles is too kind-hearted for his own good. According to Art, the veteran Wooster college coach entered into a two-year agreement with Ashland college for two games a couple of years ago.

The two-year agreement was to be completed this year, but Coach George Donges asked Boles to release him from the game so that he could accept an invitation to go to Alfred college in New York.

To do so meant that Boles would have to look elsewhere for a game for that date, but the Scots' coach complied with Ashland's request.

Boles finally booked John Carroll for the Ashland date, and the Cleveland team handed Wooster one of its two defeats in Ohio Conference circles.

Ashland might have won from Wooster, Murray says, but it would have been a major upset. Kent outplayed Ashland to win, 14-0, and Wooster trimmed Kent by a 15-6 margin.

Had Wooster played Ashland and won, the Scots would be riding in second place in the conference today.

Offense Ahead Of Defense, Says Schmidt

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—One of the nation's best known offensive coaches, Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio State, today voiced strong disapproval of proposals which would make for freer scoring in football.

Dig back over the records of coaches at major schools for the past 10 years and you'll find Schmidt at or near the top from an offensive standpoint. His reputation has been built upon high scoring combines, so it is a bit strange to find him opposed to proposed changes that would make it easier to garner touchdowns.

"I regard the suggestion that college teams be permitted to pass from any point behind the line of scrimmage as foolish," Schmidt said, "the offense is still far ahead of the defense and doesn't need any help at the moment. Such a rule merely would make for looser play and spoil the running attack altogether."

NEW LEAGUE RECORD SET

Yingling of Empire Cafe Rolls 668 Total to Establish New Mark.

Yingling of the Empire Cafe established a new record in the Empire Steel Mill league at the Meder alleys last night when he came through with a 668. The former record of 664 was held by Bernat. Yingling put together games of 225, 247 and 196.

Hipp of the Storemen was next high among the individuals with a 624. Team scoring honors were annexed by the Cafe, which pounded down 2596 pins.

Vitt to Be Boss

New Pilot Says Indians Will Play Ball or There Will Be a Shake-up.

By HENRY McLEMORE

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—I met the real condemned man of sports today. He wasn't inside Alcartraz's grim walls, but rather in a comfortable Oakland home.

The man, Oscar Vitt, actually appeared happy, although when spring comes he must assume the duty of managing the Cleveland baseball team.

Vitt Is Brave.

I marvelled at the bravery of Vitt and his courage in hiding his rendezvous with disaster. Because that is what he has. Cleveland is the burial ground of baseball managers. Roger Peckinpaugh went there and left a beaten man. Walter Johnson went there and two years later ambled through the exit gate, thoroughly crushed. Steve O'Neill tried it for a year and a half and now he's looking for a job.

Now Vitt has signed to manage the Indians and bare his scalp to the hatchets of the board of directors that runs the team, and constantly second guess as the manager.

Nothing a Cleveland manager does suits the august board. If he calls the infield in the board of directors wig-wags the players to get back. If he signals for a hit and run, the board of directors waves for a double steal.

I asked Vitt if he knew all of this. He said he did.

"Yes," he answered. "I have heard all about that. But sonny boy, Cleveland will play ball for me. If the boys don't like that, there will be a shake-up that will be a shake-up. There probably will be one, anyway. And Vitt won't be fired until two years are up, win, lose, or collapse. Because I've got a contract that calls for that long, and it's a civil contract, not a baseball one. But we are not going to lose or collapse. We are going to win. I'm a winning manager."

The man talked on in this vein for half an hour. His enthusiasm is tremendous. No sophomore ever went to bat against his school's old rival with more spirit than Vitt shows for the Cleveland job.

His lifelong ambition has been to manage a big league club, otherwise he hardly would have quit Newark, which won a pennant by 25 games, to take charge at Cleveland, baseball's elba.

His Ideas About Bob.

Vitt has definite ideas about Bob Feller, the Iowa farm boy, with the blazing smoke ball.

"Feller won't be a Sunday pitcher with me in charge," Vitt said. "He'll pitch whenever I want him to. He's a good pitcher, but he's going to be a better one under me. Bob will pitch when Vitt says so. Nobody else will have anything to say about his work."

In other words, Oscar Vitt is going to boss the Cleveland ball club.

That will be a novelty, even if he finishes in last place. Even it he can't beat the other clubs, beating the board of directors will be no mean accomplishment.

OFFICE TEAM SETS PACE

Zegalia Rolls a 370 Total to Lead Westinghouse Women's League.

The Office team smashed out a 1375 total to lead the way in the Westinghouse women's league at the Meder alleys last night. Zegalia of the Appliance Finishing rolled a high 270.

Reds to Reduce Playing Area at Crosley Field.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Plans for reducing the playing area of Crosley field, home grounds of the Cincinnati Reds, by moving home plate 20 feet nearer the center field fence and swinging the foul lines around some from left field to right, were announced today by General Manager Warren Giles.

The change, Giles said, has been decided upon with the approval of Manager Bill McKechnie with the double idea of helping the hitter and making it easier for fans seated in certain sections of the park to see all parts of the playing field.

PERFORMS IN CLEVELAND

Mansfield football fans will be offered a chance to see one of the outstanding pro gridsters in action in Cleveland Sunday when Sammy Baugh, above, Texas Christian All-American, appears with the Washington Redskins against the Rams at League park.

Reduces Admission For Ashland Game.

A special price for adults tickets will prevail for Mansfield high's concluding game of the season with Ashland at Stadium field Saturday for those who purchase their ducats before noon Saturday, George Sherman, who is in charge of the ticket sale, announced today.

Adult tickets purchased before noon Saturday will be sold for 33 cents. The price at the gate will be 50 cents. The pre-game tickets are available at the Tawse, Central and Brown pharmacies.

Lose Matches To Wooster

Mansfield teams were on the short end of the scoring in matches with Wooster bowlers at the Meder alleys last night. The Harris Paints of Wooster defeated the Metcalf Pure Oils, 2912 to 2783, and Rice Recreation of Wooster whipped Untiet Insurance, 2890 to 2871.

Heilman of the Insurancemen accounted for the best individual total in the two matches. He finished his string with a 223 to reach the 646 figures.

Prints Offer On Front Page

Michigan Paper Reveals Bid to Freshman.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U.P.)—The Michigan Daily, student newspaper of the University of Michigan, printed on its front page yesterday a telegram which contained an "offer" from Tulane university to a member of the Michigan freshman football squad.

The telegram, signed by Bill Bevan, former Minnesota guard now line coach at the New Orleans school, was sent to Tom Harmon, athlete from Gary, Ind., who was described by Athletic Director Fielding Yost last year as "the nation's outstanding high school athlete."

Publication of the wire followed recent charges by the university's athletic board that it had learned certain Michigan alumni groups were subsidizing athletes now on the campus.

The telegram, dated from Athens, Ga., read: "Your help at simon-pure school will always be subject of criticism. Our offer still stands. Wire me collect New Orleans Monday. Can still enter this semester.

(Signed) Bill Bevan."

NEW ORLEANS — (U.P.) — Line Coach Bill Bevan of Tulane university today admitted telegraphing Tom Harmon, University of Michigan freshman football star, an invitation to come to Tulane.

"No promises were made whatsoever," Bevan insisted when informed that the Michigan Daily Student had front-paged his telegram.

GREENLEAF WINS AGAIN

Defeats Crane to Annex 16th Pocket Billiard Title.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, hardy perennial of pocket billiards, had $1,500 prize money and his 16th world championship to show today for his playoff victory last night over Irving Crane, 23, of Livonia, N. Y.

The New York City veteran, defending champion, marched roughshod over Crane, ending with his best run of 76. His winning margin was 125 to minus one in 11 innings.

CHICAGO — Billy Marquart, 130, Winnepeg, Man., outpointed Sammy Angott, 128¾, Louisville, Ky., (8).

Pigskin Pendulum Swings to Coast

California's Unbeaten Bears Meet Stanford at Palo Alto In No. 1 Game Saturday—Competition Light Elsewhere.

By HENRY SUPER, United Press Correspondent.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The football pendulum swings to the Pacific Coast Saturday for the last big week-end of the 1937 season. At Palo Alto, California's Golden Bears, unbeaten but tied, meet Stanford in the No. 1 game of the day. At stake will be the conference championship and a chance to represent the west in the Rose Bowl.

California will be favored. The Bears lead the conference with five victories and one tie. Stanford is second with four conference victories, one defeat and one tie. Should they tie for the title, members of the conference would have to decide which to select to represent the west at Pasadena New Year's day.

Elsewhere competition will be comparatively light, because many teams will rest in preparation for Thanksgiving day engagements.

Only two of the nation's five undefeated, untied teams will be in action. Lafayette winds up its season against Lehigh and Montana plays Idaho in its semi-final game. Colorado, Santa Clara and Alabama are idle.

All the undefeated but tied teams will be busy. Fordham, after a week of rest, engages St. Mary's in the day's leading intersectional battle. Yale plays Harvard in a game that will decide the traditional Big Three title. Dartmouth meets Columbia, Pittsburgh plays Penn State, Villanova engages Temple and Holy Cross meets Carnegie Tech.

Other games by sections:

EAST — Princeton-Navy; Boston college-Boston U.; Syracuse-Colgate and Army-St. John's of Maryland.

MID-WEST—Big Ten competition comes to a close with the following games: Ohio State-Michigan; Purdue-Indiana; Chicago-Illinois and Wisconsin-Minnesota. Minnesota, leading with four victories and no defeats, can take the title by defeating Wisconsin. Outside games pair. Northwestern, defending Big Ten champion, against Notre Dame; Nebraska-Iowa and Marquette-Duquesne. Only one game is scheduled in the Big Six—Iowa State-Kansas State.

SOUTH — Three conference games in the southeastern division: Auburn-Georgia; Florida-Georgia Tech and Sewanee-Tulane. Alabama, the leader, is idle but meets Vanderbilt on Thanksgiving day.

In the southern division, Duke plays North Carolina State in the only conference game of the day.

SOUTHWEST—Only one conference game—Rice-Texas Christian. Rice leads the division with two victories and a tie. Outside games are: George Washington-Arkansas; Baylor-Loyola of Los Angeles, and Texas Tech-Centenary.

PACIFIC COAST — Stanford-California game features last big Saturday of conference competition. Only other conference game left is U. S. C.-U. C. L. A. on Dec. 4. Other conference games this week are Washington-Oregon and Washington State-Oregon State.

ST. PAUL NAMES PILOT

ST. PAUL—(U.P.)—Foster (Babe) Ganzel, manager of the Selma, Ala., baseball club of the Southeastern league, today had been named manager of the St. Paul club of the American Association.

Mansfield High Third In Ohio Rankings.

In the weekly Ohio grid rankings compiled by Robert W. Beach, Ohio State Journal, Columbus, sports writer, Mansfield high school is rated third. Massillon tops the rankings, with Canton McKinley second. Following Mansfield, in order, are Hamilton, Toledo Scott, Steubenville, Columbus West, Fremont Ross, Sandusky and New Philadelphia.

SCHETTLER HEADS CLUB

Elected President of Y Junior Rifle Group; Clark Leads Tryouts.

Richard Schettler has been elected president of the Y. M. C. A. junior rifle club, C. A. Hassinger, instructor of the club, announced today. Calvin Bronson was elected vice president. Nick Weamer, jr., range officer; Joseph Collins, secretary, and Robert Ehalt, treasurer.

The club is now attempting to arrange inter-city matches with neighboring city teams, according to Hassinger.

At recent tryouts staged at the indoor range at the Y, William Clark led the scoring with a 78. Weamer was second high with a 74 total, and was followed by Durward Burns, who shot a 68 card.

Truckers Win On Forfeit

Winning three games from the CCC office on a forfeit, the Williams Truckers retained first place in the Motor Freight league at the Meder alleys last night. The Truckers hold a two-game lead over the CCC Docks.

May Drop Out Of Conference

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)—New agitation for the withdrawal of the University of Cincinnati from the Buckeye conference was started here today.

The "News-Record," a campus publication, said editorially the school "has embarked on a program of building a strong football eleven and the Buckeye conference has no part in the program."

The editorial in part said:

"The University of Cincinnati, by building a stadium with a capacity of 25,000, is committed irrevocably to a football schedule composed of major opponents and those in authority recently have evidenced their intention of building a major team."

Basketball Returns To County Friday.

Basketball will return to the sports stage this week-end when two Richland county teams go into action at Union rural high school, formerly Weller, Friday night.

Union's first opponent will be Lucas, coached by Gil Weikert. Merle Baker is again at the helm at Union.

The Bakermen will return to action Friday with four lettermen in the lineup. The lettermen are Lawrence Bowser, Eugene Baker, James Purdy and Mervin Oswalt. Gene Clingan, all-county guard, and Leland Kissel are the veterans of last winter's team who graduated.

Injuries End Rabb's Career

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)—The intercollegiate football career of Johnny Rabb, hard-hitting Ohio State fullback appeared ended today following an announcement the Akron boy would not play in the Bucks' concluding game Saturday with Michigan.

A knee injury Rabb received during the first half of the Indiana game two weeks ago has failed to respond to treatment.

Rabb is listed as a junior at Ohio State, but has right to another season of athletic participation has been questioned. The Akron boy played freshman football at Fordham before enrolling at Ohio State.

SOLOMON ABY DIES AT AGE 96

County's No. 1 Taxpayer Had Suffered Broken Leg In Fall Five Months Ago.

from indulging in his usual activities.

Mr. Aby was the grandson of James Copus, who was a member of the party of whites massacred by the Indians at Copus Hill, near Lucas in 1812. He scarcely knew his own father who left Mifflin township, where Mr. Aby was born, to go to California in the "gold rush." He was never heard from again.

Mr. Aby had been a familiar figure at the courthouse for years, often stopping at the various offices to visit. His favorite place was the custodian's quarters in the basement, where he spent many afternoons with Moritz.

It was Moritz who helped the aged man to keep his "first taxpayer" record intact a year ago, by acting as his proxy when the real estate books opened. He repeated at the June tax collection period.

"Mr. Aby took great pride in being the first here with his tax money," County Treasurer John E. Kolb said, "and I can't say how long he had been the first at the door the day the books opened."

One of Mr. Aby's most vivid recollections was that of the "big freeze" of 1859. In June of that year, a severe freeze struck this section of the country, killing crops and leaving much of the county's population without food during the following fall and winter.

Mr. Aby cast his first vote for president for Abraham Lincoln in the following year.

For more than 30 years he had lived on the same farm where he died. He retired from active farming 25 years ago, and had lived since then on the Wooster road, until the time of his injury.

Surviving in addition to Mrs. Cook are another daughter, Mrs. J. W. Keefer of Little Washington; a son, Charles, in Ashland county; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Morkot and Mrs. Fannie Williams in Michigan; nine grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

For many years he was a member of the Mt. Zion Lutheran church and it will be there that funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, with Rev. Glenn M. Bishop officiating. Burial will be in the Mt. Zion cemetery. The body will remain at the Cook home until the hour of services. The family, complying with Mr. Aby's wishes, asked that flowers be omitted.

Hoot Returns In Grotto Circus

Hoot Gibson, famous as the star of more than 300 Western films, will pay his second visit to Mansfield this year when he is presented at the Baku Grotto circus at the Coliseum next week. The hero of western movie studios and international roundups appeared in Mansfield last summer as the cowboy star of a circus at the fairgrounds.

* * * * *

CLOWNS, AERIALISTS, COWBOYS MOVE INTO COLISEUM MONDAY

Mansfield's Coliseum will take on the gaicty of multi-colored banners, tumbling clowns, flying aerialists, and shouting cowboys Monday as the Baku Grotto indoor circus opens a week's engagement there.

Heading the stellar attractions will be Hoot Gibson, star of action movies and his equally famous horse Rowdy, who appeared in Mansfield last summer with a circus at the fairgrounds.

Gibson, who has won the world's championship as all-round cowboy for several years at such famous round-ups as those staged at Pendleton, Cheyenne, and Calgary, will bring a retinue of cowboys and cowgirls in colorful regalia. Gibson has starred in more than 300 western films.

There will be a number of well-known performers of the sawdust arena in the Grotto show. Among them will be Mlle. Rita de la Plata, European flying star who is making her American debut this year and will appear in an aerial act next summer in this country.

Harold Barnes, a Canadian performer, will bring his silver wire act and the Flying Illingtons are flying trapeze performers. Bareback feats of skill and daring are promised by the presentation of the riding Hobsons. In addition there will be clowns, a flying ballet, elephants and performing horses and ponies.

Frank May, chairman of the Grotto circus, announced today that tickets are on sale through all members of the Grotto, and that grandstand and box seats may be purchased at the Central Drug and Tawse Pharmacy.

The circus opens Monday night and will be presented twice daily throughout the week, with shows at 2 and 8 p. m.

Doctor's Prescription For Liquor Habit
A doctor's prescription, used for years for those addicted to the use of alcohol is now offered to the public as Alcoban. It is not habit-forming and can be taken in liquor, tea, coffee, food, or any other liquid, with or without the user's knowledge. Aids the sufferer to overcome the craving for liquor and to build up his resistance. Many loved ones saved and brought back to a life of usefulness. Try a box at our risk. Proper results or money back. Sold by Wm. T. Hursh, 4th and Diamond St., and other good druggists. Get Alcoban today.

LEGAL NOTICE

Petition of Administrator to Sell Real Estate to Pay Debts.

In the Probate Court of Richland County, Ohio. R. J. Nichols, Admr. of the Estate of Elizabeth Munch, deceased, Plaintiff, vs. Frank Arnold, et al, etc., Defendants.

John Arnold, George Arnold, and Pete Arnold, as heirs of Elizabeth Munch, deceased, whose residences are unknown will take notice that R. J. Nichols, Admr. of the estate of Elizabeth Munch, dec'd., on the 8th day of November, 1937, filed his petition in the Probate Court within and for the County of Richland and State of Ohio, alleging that the personal estate of said decedent is insufficient to pay her debts and the charges of administering her estate, that she died seized in fee simple of the following real estate situated in said County, to-wit, Richland:

Parcel No. 1. Lot No. 4273 of the consecutive numberings of Inlots in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, and further described as being a frame residence at 43 Parker Street, Mansfield, Ohio.

Parcel No. 2. A tract of land divided into five lots and described as follows: Beginning at a point 250 feet west from the southwest corner of Maple and Bennett Streets on the south line of Maple Street, running thence south parallel with Bennett Street 160 feet, thence east parallel with the south line of Maple Street 40 feet, thence south parallel with the west line of Bennett Street 444 feet to the north line of Highland Ave. or Highland Ave. as extended, thence west along the north line of Highland Ave. or Highland as extended 191.67 feet, thence north parallel with the east boundary line 444 feet, thence east parallel with the south line of Maple Street 38.3 feet, thence north parallel with the west line of Bennett Street 160 feet to the south line of Maple Street, thence east along the south side of Maple street 53.3 feet to the place of beginning. The land above described containing 1.9 acre more or less and is a part of the northeast quarter of Section 29, Township 21 and Range 18.

The prayer of said petition is for the sale of said premises for the payment of the debts and charges aforesaid.

The persons above mentioned will take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 11th day of Dec. 1937.

R. J. NICHOLS,
Administrator.

WHAT PRICE SLUDGE

SLUDGE . . . is the gummy deposit of worn oil plus road dust, metal filings, corrosive acids, water, and carbon.

LET US FREE YOUR MOTOR FROM SLUDGE

By This New and Revolutionary

HI-KLONIC METHOD

Ordinary draining of old oil does not remove the destructive accumulations of grit, metal chips, road dust, carbon, grime and gummy sludge from the interior engine surfaces.

HI-KLONIC MOTOR

Bathes every moving part inside the Engine, Transmission and Differential with very HOT VALVE OIL (not cold flushing oil) at a temperature of 220 degree F. With a combination of pressure, vacuum and special filters, the inside of your motor is cleaned like new. And with a clean motor you are bound to get better lubrication and improved motor performance.

Enables Clean Fresh Oil to Give 100 Per Cent Lubrication.

We know you will like the results of this new Hi-Klonic service. May we prove its merits to you?

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Up and At 'Em. By Harold Gray

ALL I KNOW IS ME ORDERS WAS TO HANG AROUND HERE BY THIS OLD BLADE HOUSE—'TIS A SPOOKY OLD PLACE, O'M THINKIN'—
YIS, IT IS THAT—WELL, I MUST BE MOPEYIN' ALONG, ME BEAT—MAYBE I'LL BE RUNNIN' INTO THIS GUY, BLABBLE, WE'RE ALL LOOKIN' FOR—
HA! UNLOCKED—SO THIS IS THE 'HAUNTED HOUSE'—SUCH BOSH! THEY SAY CRAZY OLD BLADE LIVES IN A COUPLE OF ROOMS ON THE TOP FLOOR—
THE BRAT'S HERE—THAT'S CERTAIN—HOW DID SHE ESCAPE FROM THE RIVER? SOMEONE HELPED HER—WHO? WHEN I KNOW THAT, I'LL KNOW WHO GOT ME INTO THIS MESS—AHH-R—JUST WAIT TILL I GET MY FINGERS AROUND THAT BRAT'S NECK!
HAROLD GRAY
SH-H-H! LISTEN! WHAT'S THAT? SANDY HEARD IT TOO—IT'S—IT'S—IT'S SOMEBODY SNEAKIN' UP TH' STAIRS—
LIE DOWN, SANDY—HA! HAS HEARING THINGS AGAIN, EH? AH, NOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO HEAR A FEW EXCLUSIVE RECORDS?

THE NEBBS—It Can't Be Done. By Sol Hess

I'M THE MAN WHO OWNS THIS PLACE—I SENT ARDLEY DOWN HERE TO RUN IT—YOU REMEMBER ME?
I'LL SAY I DO—SO YOU'RE THE GUY I BEEN WORKIN' FOR?
I WANT YOU TO TAKE COMPLETE MANAGEMENT OF THIS PLACE BUT I CANT AFFORD TO PAY $50 A WEEK—I'LL GIVE YOU $25 AND 10% OF THE PROFITS!
I WOULDN'T WORK FOR YOU IF YOU GIVE ME $25 A MINUTE AND ALL THE PROFITS—GO TAKE A HONEST PEEK AT YOURSELF IN THE LOOKIN'-GLASS AN' YOU'LL QUIT WORKIN' FOR YOURSELF!
ALL RIGHT, I'LL SELL YOU THE PLACE—I PAID $5000 FOR IT—IT'S A BARGAIN!
BARGAIN? THAT DUMBBELL ARDLEY OR WHATEVER HIS NAME IS SAID HE COULDN'T PAY OVER 3000 BUCKS FOR IT SO I TOOK IT—YOU COULD HAVE BOUGHT IT FOR THREE!

SO I'M A PRISONER!—RIGHT HERE IN THE VERY HEART OF THE CITY!—WHO'D HAVE THOUGHT SUCH A THING POSSIBLE? —WHY HAVE THEY DONE IT? WHAT CAN THEY WANT OF ME?
IT WAS CLEVER THE WAY THEY TRICKED ME HERE! THAT BEAUTIFUL, REFINED—LOOKING MRS VANCE! WHAT A SURPRISE, —A SHOCK! TO THINK, SHE'S ONLY A PART OF THIS—THIS GANG, OR WHATEVER THEY ARE!
SHE CERTAINLY FOOLED ME! I SUPPOSE ALL OF HER VISITS TO COLONEL CAREY WERE JUST PART OF THE SCHEME —TO GET IN TOUCH WITH ME—GET MY CONFIDENCE!—
DON'T SUPPOSE I'LL BE LEFT ALONE LONG —BUT THERE'S NO CHANCE TO ESCAPE—THIS IS THE 27TH FLOOR—THE SWANKY DORNLEY HOTEL!—THEY SEEM TO HAVE A VERY ELABORATE, EXTENSIVE SUITE HERE, TOO!
WHAT WAS IT THAT WOMAN SAID?—I WAS "UNFORTUNATE TO BE THE GIRL—FRIEND OF A MAN WHO HAD BECOME VERY OBJECTIONABLE TO THEM"! —WHOM COULD SHE MEAN? IT MUST BE DAVID! THEY'RE CROOKS, AND HE IS AFTER THEM!—THAT MUST BE IT!

PIVOTAL GROUP UP MODERATELY IN QUIET MART

Small Advances Replace Early Fractional Losses Near Second Hour.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pivotal issues were inclined moderately higher in the stock market today, with gains ranging from fractions to a point or more.

Dealings were quiet after an inactive opening and the ticker tape was frequently stationary. Early fractional losses were generally erased and small advances substituted near the second hour.

Traders were inclined to avoid commitments pending clarification of congressional sentiment toward tax revision and kindred subjects of interest to Wall Street.

Bonds were mixed and narrow in quiet trading. Major commodities tended higher.

The "Iron Age" review of the week in the steel industry, forecasting a pickup over the next few weeks in railroad buying, was scanned carefully by boardroom followers of the steel shares.

The Review, while not discounting the further drastic drop in operations this week, said the automobile industry was experiencing an increase in sales and a rapid reduction in inventories which might soon be reflected in new buying of steel.

Another item of interest was the report of the national industrial conference board, showing a decrease of 4.3 per cent in employment in the manufacturing industries at mid-November compared with the October figure. The Edison Electric institute disclosed a more than seasonal decline in electric power production for the week ended Nov. 13.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—Wool quotations were entirely nominal yesterday due to lack of business.

Combing Ohio fleeces were available at 33 to 35 cents in the grease for fine Delaines, 35@36c for staple combing lengths half blood, 35@37c for three-eighths and ¾@36c for quarter blood. These were prices asked on wools voluntarily offered. Considerably lower prices were reported on occasional sales of small distress lots.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Daughter Born — A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Archer Currens, 86 South Main street, at the home Tuesday evening.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. BAHL, 94

Mother of Real Estate Broker Had Lived In City 77 Years; Funeral Friday.

Death today claimed one of the oldest residents of Mansfield, Mrs. Lovina Reem Bahl, 94.

Mrs. Bahl died at the home of her son, Gaylord W. Bahl, 458 Park avenue west, Mansfield real estate broker, following a brief illness.

A resident of Mansfield 77 years, Mrs. Bahl was born in Lancaster county, Pa., the daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth Hoffman. She was one of the oldest members of the First Lutheran church, which she joined Feb. 1, 1865.

She was married to the late Philip Bahl at the First Lutheran parsonage on Park avenue west by Rev. Simon Fenner, Sept. 27, 1864.

In addition to her son, the survivors include three grandsons, Gaylord W. Bahl, jr., J. Pierpont Bahl and Charles E. Bahl, and a great granddaughter, Mary Ann Bahl, all of this city.

Private funeral services will be held at the Jones funeral home at 3 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, of the First Lutheran church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home until the time of services.

STUDIES POLICY

Grange Weighing Adoption of War Prevention Plan.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—The national grange convention considered for adoption today the report of its foreign relations committee recommending policies directed at preventing the United States from becoming involved in war.

Declaring the most "important question before the United States today is how to safeguard the peace of our nation," the report outlined a seven-point program. It includes in part:

"We oppose any entangling foreign alliances that sooner or later may lead to war.

"We are unalterably opposed to any war of aggressive nature.

"We approve an armament program to fully protect our nation from invasion."

Plan Dance To Raise Funds For Fisch Memorial

A dance to raise additional funds for the erection of a memorial at Liberty park to the late Frank Fisch, former Mansfield high school and Ohio State football star, will be held at G. B. U. park Wednesday, Nov. 24, Frank Mitsch, a member of the Fisch Memorial committee, announced today.

In addition to the Memorial committee, consisting of Mitsch, Ned Brooks, Boyd Wierman, Tracy Styert, J. B. Miller and Vernon Kyle, the sponsors of the dance are the G. B. U. park association and Liberty park association.

Dale Stevens' orchestra will furnish music for the event.

The Farmers Savings and Trust company has been appointed trustee of the Memorial fund which was opened with donations several weeks ago.

The type of memorial to be erected for the football star, who was killed in a plane crash at Randolph field, Texas, several months ago, has not been determined.

Personal Tax Collection Ends, $19,000 Still Due.

The second half personal tax collection period which closed yesterday produced receipts of $134,811 on a half-year charge of $153,195, according to County Treasurer John E. Kolb.

Mail payments which arrived after the books closed were expected to boost the total receipts to a greater figure. Of the amount collected during the month the tax books were open, $99,500 was in general personal levies and $35,311 in classified personal tax.

More than $76,000 of the general tax receipts was collected in three days, the treasurer's books show. The biggest day was Nov. 4 when collections were above the $40,000 mark. They reached $25,000 Nov. 12, and $11,452 was taken in Monday.

10 Senior High Girls Make Tour of Cleveland School.

Ten girl students of the Senior high school were in Cleveland today visiting at Shaw high school as the guests of a girls' club of the school.

The girls who made the trip represent each class at the school, and were chosen by faculty members and fellow students. While in Cleveland, they will attend a tea at Shaw high as the guests of the Sunshine club, a girl's group, and will study activities there. Reports of the trip will be made to the Student Representative council.

Students who made the trip are Kathryn Fighter, Jean Boals, Mary Bair, Mildred Wappner, Barbara Brunner, Nancy Bushnell, Betty Palmer, Mildred Miller, Marjorie Boals, and Patricia Oberlander.

Accompanying the students were Miss Kathleen Mendenhall, of the school faculty, and Mrs. D. O. Meese, and Mrs. F. D. Boals.

MARIJUANA WAR ON

NOGALES, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Federal border inspectors and narcotics officers have declared war on secret gangs smuggling marijuana from Mexico and selling it at enormous profits.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or have hasty meals, more acid than needed may be secreted. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the utmost stomach trouble harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25¢ package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for indigestion. Sold everywhere. 25¢ Bell & Co. Ltd.

Lose Bad Breath—Keep Your Friends

In spite of all that has been written about bad breath, thousands still lose friends through this unpleasant fault. Yet sour stomach with its resultant bad breath is frequently only the result of constipation. Just as it can also cause loss of appetite, early weakness, nervousness, mental dullness.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

The individualized Bald-No-More hair growing method is the development of Edwin G. Yost, scalp specialist of wide reputation. Avail yourself of this opportunity. Very few cases are hopeless and if your case is hopeless, you will be told so frankly. Get rid of the 19th century idea that if your hair is thinning you must accept baldness. The science of hair culture has made vast strides since Dad's day. Baldness today is a matter of choice. The man who cares chooses hair, not baldness.
The road of baldness is well marked by abnormal hair loss, various forms of dandruff, soreness of scalp, itching, dryness, etc. Heed these warnings. ACT NOW!
Bald-No-More removes the causes of baldness and revitalizes the sources of hair growth. The natural result is abundant healthy hair.
Treatment is brief two minutes per day at home and low in cost. Treatment is pleasant and you will enjoy it as you see the results. Hair is your priceless asset. Take care of it. Choose hair, not baldness. Avail yourself of this opportunity! Regrow your hair now!

"WE ARE NOW READY TO OFFER 1938's GREATEST MOTOR CAR VALUES!"

THE SIX - THE EIGHT (also known as 120) THE SUPER EIGHT .... THE TWELVE PACKARD for 1938

IT IS with much pleasure that we announce our association with the Packard family — our appointment as dealer of Packard motor cars in this locality.

This happy association now enables us to offer you:

The most sensationally improved motor cars, regardless of size or price, to be offered the public in years—the new, low-priced 1938 Packard Six and 1938 Packard Eight (also known as the Packard 120).

The safest, quietest, most luxurious motor cars in the world—the new 1938 Packard 12 and the new 1938 Packard Super 8.

You can afford a Packard if you can afford almost any new car—and we can arrange most attractive payments. And you can afford to operate and maintain a Packard—for a Packard challenges even the lowest priced cars for economy.

Visit this new Packard showroom and let us prove it. Or phone—and let us bring a Packard and the convincing figures around to your door at any time that suits your convenience.

To become thus associated with America's largest, oldest and most successful makers of fine cars is, we feel, an indication of this firm's unusual fitness and character as a business organization. We feel confident that members of this community will agree with us. We hope you will give them an opportunity to serve you.

THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XVII

The familiarity of the room beat upon Elna as she waited, but she beat it back. She must think—no; she must not think any longer. Her head fell back against the chair She yielded to the sleep of nervous strain and utter exhaustion.

She was awakened by the presence of half a dozen men in the room. She sprang up, every nerve taut. Her eyes were still dim with sleep.

"I was asleep," she said. "Who are you?"

A tall, dark young man came forward. "Before you settled down for your nap," he said, "you telephoned the police that there had been a murder in this apartment?"

"I did not say murder. Elna answered quickly. "I'd been through a good deal, and when I telephoned about my friend's accident, I thought—"

"Hello, Miss Jepson," one of the group interrupted. He was the campus cop, who knew her well by sight. He waved a slip of paper in his hand. "Sorry about all this."

She felt the words as a warning not to try to sustain her alias. "Camp" would have known her automobile number, and a call for the state bureau would have revealed her as the owner. That job of tracing the number of her apartment with its assumed name had been given to "Camp," and executed without his knowing what it was all about He still did not know. But "Jepson" had not been the name under apartment twelve. Miss Jepson was in a jam of some sort. His only way to help was to warn her to stick to her own name.

"We are all sorry," said the tall young man. "I am Inspector Jewell of the homicide squad. You don't mind if my men look about a bit?"

"There is no question of homicide, but you may look about all you please, ask anything you please."

"Then the boss will go ahead."

Elna was dimly aware of men behind her examining the furniture, spraying it with gray powder for fingerprints. She had provided for all this They would find nothing. Some one else was down on the floor with a tape measure and a metal square

"You called us Why?" barked Jewell.

"Well, if I had killed my friend I should not have called you at all, should I?" Elna parried.

Jewell leaned back in his chair. "Mind if I smoke?" he asked.

"Not in the least" Elna pushed the coffee table with its cigarette service toward him.

"Well, then?" he said at last.

Elna straightened in her chair. "Mrs. Ainsworth, the—the one who is dead here—"

"Mrs. Roger Ainsworth?" exclaimed a voice from the rear.

"Of course!" Elna said. "I supposed you all knew that. We were casual friends. We had entertained each other for years, from time to time We met on the street, and I invited her to my place to wait for her husband, who, she said, was working late"

"Rather odd place to wait," murmured Jewell. Small slips of paper were delivered unobtrusively into his hand.

"Not at all," flashed Elna. "Why not?"

"All right," Jewell agreed blandly. "Why not?"

"Mrs Ainsworth," Elna said dully, "was standing and she reached forward to smell the rose on the little table. Suddenly her foot slipped on the hard wood floor. I tried to catch her but I was not quick enough Her heel caught on the edge of the rug, and she fell against the corner of the table. That is all."

"You did not move the body?" A voice spoke behind her.

"No—yes—yes, I did," Elna said. "I turned her over to find out if there was any chance of saving her. I know one shouldn't do that, but one forgets. I'm afraid that will spoil all your trajectories."

"So you know about trajectories," Jewell said. "You seem to know a lot, Miss Jepson"

Above all, she must not be afraid. She had done no wrong They could not hurt her

Jewell had shuffled the slips of paper in his hand. "You say that you called the police immediately you feared Mrs Ainsworth was dead from her fall?"

"Yes." The time had come. Simple answers were best.

"If Mrs Ainsworth were paying you a friendly call, can you explain why none of her fingerprints were found in the living room?"

"I do not know, unless she happened to fail to touch anything."

Elna rose, slim, erect, alert She recognized battle when she saw it, even though the issue still seemed bewildering.

"You admit you moved the body, which I assume you knew was improper. Why did you do this, and then not mention it until asked about it?"

Elna smiled wearily She could not explain that her forgetfulness was due to the hour spent later with Roger.

"I do not know. I suppose I wanted to help her if I could," she said weakly.

"But you knew it?" Jewell prodded.

"Yes. Is that all?" Erect, chin lifted, eyes dark and steady, she faced Jewell.

"Not quite," Jewell said with the gentleness that put Elna on guard. "When you found your friend hurt, did you call for a doctor?"

"No. I realized she was dead That is why I called the police"

"Did you attempt to get in touch with Mrs. Ainsworth's husband?"

"I did not know where to reach him"

Jewell shuffled the notes handed to him by his assistants. "Miss Jepson, we have discovered that you use this place under a false name Do you care to explain the use of an alias?"

A small fat man slipped another note into Jewell's hand. He added, "May we have the poker?" He carried it to the kitchen which seemed to have been established as laboratory headquarters.

"All my childhood," Elna answered Jewell, "I lived among famous people, and the hangers-on of famous people. My father and I were not on friendly terms with our relatives. After his death, I preferred to keep on with my work, and to establish a private life in which they could not interfere. This was the only way I could think of doing it. If you have any uncongenial relatives, you might have wanted an escape from them, sometimes?" She flashed a tilted smile at Jewell He smiled back.

If Elna could only have given her word of honor at that moment that this was the only reason for her false name, Jewell would have believed her. She saw it in his face. But she could not tell that lie, remembering how much Roger had to do with these arrangements.

Reaching forward for another cigarette, Jewell's hand touched the percolator and jumped back. A very slight tilt of the head called the attention of one of his men and the percolator was quietly removed from the table behind Elna.

"Just what did Mrs. Ainsworth do after she entered this room?" he began. "As you know, she left no fingerprints"

"I was not thinking of it at the time," Elna answered "I know that we stood for a time, warming our hands before the fire Then she wandered about the room, looking at my things I noticed when she fell, certainly."

Jewell made a small mark on his paper. Elna did not know that these marks meant his impression of "truth," "false" and "worth further investigation."

"You say you called the police immediately after your friend's death?"

"Yes" She must not betray Roger by revealing their hour together

Out flashed one of the cards

"How, then," Jewell's voice was stern, "do you account for the fact that our doctor finds that Mrs Ainsworth was dead at least an hour or two before we came?"

Elna calculated quickly. "I don't account for it," she told Jewell smoothly. "No doctor can fix the time of death within an exactitude of hours"

"You know far too much, young lady," Jewell answered with equal suavity. "I wonder how—or rather I know. Your library shows an unusual number of law books"

"My hobby." Elna dismissed the subject with a wave of her cigarette

"Or else a careful study preparatory to murder—you'd carry out everything beforehand to commit a perfect crime"

"I know you'd like it to be like that." Elna was serene on that ground. "If I really were so perfect as all that, I'd have destroyed all those books, and I'd have concealed from you the amount of law I knew, I admit, is enough to give you some discomfort if I did not choose to co-operate."

TAVERN OWNER FILES APPEAL

Woman Asks Supreme Court to Decide If She's Operating 'Saloon' or Restaurant.

Mrs. Angeline Nezrick, operator of the Carioca tavern, who is under sentence for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, today asked the Ohio supreme court to decide whether she operates a "saloon" or a restaurant.

The appeal, filed by Atty. J. V. Will, her counsel, seeks to prove that Mrs. Nezrick cannot be legally convicted and sentenced on a charge of contributing to delinquency which grew out of her permitting a boy under 16 to enter and remain in her establishment on Wayne street.

The appeal asked the court to rule whether the present day liquor establishments are "saloons" in the strict sense, or are restaurants. The appeal contended that since Mrs. Nezrick's establishment is a restaurant, it cannot be a "dram shop or saloon," as charged in the affidavit.

A 90-day workhouse sentence was imposed upon Mrs. Nezrick last June 11 by Judge C. J. Anderson after a hearing in juvenile court. She appealed the conviction, but the district court of appeals in September upheld the original sentence. She has been free on $1,500 bond since her arrest six months ago.

RAISES FUNDS

Westinghouse Welfare Group to Hold Dance Saturday.

The Westinghouse Welfare association will hold a Thanksgiving dance Saturday night in the Westinghouse auditorium for the benefit of the employes' welfare fund.

Music will be furnished by the Westinghouse swing orchestra under the direction of Robert O. Richards.

A floor show of Westinghouse talent will be presented during the evening. The acts include Mike Bauderer, accordionist, Mary Sabolick, novelty dancer, and the Claypool twins, tap dancers. Proceeds from the dance will go to the employes' welfare association.

The welfare committee in charge of the event is comprised of Harold W. Arlin, chairman, Lawrence S. Houk, Fred Felton, and Stuart Roberts.

CURFEW FOR FIREMEN

DERBY, Conn.—(U.P.)—A 10:30 p. m. curfew has been proposed for all volunteer fire fighters to prevent fire stations from being used as all night club houses. The suggestion was made after a fireman fell from a second story window at 3 a. m. and suffered serious injuries.

Who Said Pills? It's Fun to Keep "Regular"!

Is keeping "regular" a chore in your family? Does it mean over-stimulating your intestines with cathartics? Then here's good news! You can AVOID common constipation and cathartics, and have a grand time doing it!

Instead of abusing your intestines, eat a NATURAL laxative food. Instead of bad-tasting pills and liquids—ENJOY crunchy, toasted Kellogg's All-Bran with milk or cream and fruits. Or in All-Bran muffins, or All-Bran cookies.

All-Bran will KEEP you "regular" as the time-table—but it works so differently from harsh purgatives. It doesn't over-stimulate your intestines; it gives them TWO things they crave and need. First, All-Bran provides "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. And next, the intestinal-tonic vitamin "B." All-Bran is a good source of this vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract.

Use All-Bran regularly: eat two tablespoons every day and drink plenty of water. The results will delight you! Every grocer sells All-Bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NO 'BABY HOLIDAYS', BOARD TELLS PITTSBURGH TEACHERS

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—A ruling by the Pittsburgh board of Education denying sabbatical leave to teachers anticipating motherhood has aroused great interest in scholastic circles.

Members of the board of education, which includes several women, contended that the law granting sabbatical leave—leave with pay—was not intended to cover such an event. Consequently the board ordered that payless leaves be extended to teachers who were about to become mothers.

The issue arose with passage of the state teachers' tenure act which guaranteed married teachers tenure of office.

The board adopted a motion refusing sabbatical leaves with pay in maternity cases and authorized two physicians to examine all applicants for the leaves and refuse pay when motherhood impends.

The ruling at once caused a flurry in teachers' circles. Three hundred Pittsburgh teachers connected with an A. F. of L. union issued a demand for "baby holidays," threatening to take the matter into court if necessary.

The Pittsburgh Teachers' association, representing 3,000 or 95 per cent of local teachers, took a poll of its membership and announced that the vote was 6 to 1 in support of the ruling by the board of education.

At once a controversy broke out between the two teachers groups. W. E. Drake, president of state and local units of the American Federation of Teachers, the A. F. of L. affiliate said:

"Expert legal counsel has advised the federation that the bill (the State Teachers Tenure Act) does not contain any reference to conditions under which the teacher can obtain sabbatical leave.

"The federation is not going to lie down and see the Pittsburgh school board run roughshod over the married school teachers. We see no reason why it should be considered disgraceful for a woman to give birth to a child."

CITY GRANTED $92,000 BY PWA FOR ROAD JOBS

Citywide Street Program Gets Federal Approval; County Allowed $9,000.

Two Richland county WPA projects totaling $101,446, including a Mansfield city-wide street improvement program, were approved by administration officials in Washington today, Associated Press dispatches said.

The city was granted $92,304 for a street program and the county $9,142 for transcribing and reclaiming county courthouse records.

The city-wide street project that totals $162,683, and of which the city is to pay $70,379, includes the grading and paving of numerous streets and the construction of curbs, gutters, storm sewers and sidewalks.

Expected to Start in Spring.

The project has been approved by council's street committee and final legislation will be presented as soon as the project is released by the state headquarters in Columbus. City officials, however, said they did not expect the release of the work by WPA headquarters before spring.

The transcribing project for reclaiming the county courthouse records was set up at a cost of $16,045, with a request for federal funds totaling $15,890 and the county's share at $595.

With only $9,142 allowed on the grant, WPA engineers said the project when released, would be carried as long as possible when another request will be made to complete the work.

Kidnap Suspect

Arnett Booth, above, is being held along with James Travis and Orville Atkins, both paroled inmates of the Ohio State reformatory here, in connection with the kidnaping of Dr. James I. Seder, former head of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon league. Dr. Seder was held 11 days in an abandoned mine for $50,000 ransom. The ransom was not paid but the aged man died of pneumonia.

GIVES LECTURES

Noted Traveler to Speak Three Nights at Legion Home.

Frederick White, noted traveler and lecturer, will give a series of three lectures starting tomorrow night on his travelogue, "Around the World," at the American Legion home, under the auspices of McVey Post No. 16, American Legion.

The lectures will be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p. m. and will be open to the general public.

White, who has traveled in 40 different countries, will illustrate his talk with colored pictures gathered during his travels.

His illustrated lecture will include Ethiopia, Java, and a trip across the Pacific, life in the Orient, India, the Holy Land, and the Mediterranean. The canals of Venice and various oriental scenes also will be shown.

SOVIET HISTORY TEXT OUT

2 WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in ⅓ glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today — is 3¢ to 5¢ — relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on — with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief — then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1937.

The Detroit News sees as a hopeful tendency the growing inclination to ask, "When is the country coming to?"

You must soon decide whether to indulge in the luxury of a pork roast for Thanksgiving, or be satisfied with turkey.

If private industry doesn't want the government to build homes in competition with it, there's a wonderful chance now to go ahead with its own construction.

Counting the Unemployed.

THE intent of the federal unemployed census, being conducted this week, is worthy of general co-operation—and should be seriously regarded by every person who is now unemployed or employed only part time.

Estimates of the total of unemployment in the United States have thus far been mere guesswork, with localized conditions changing so rapidly that statistics of only a year or two ago would be worthless today.

Before there can be any really intelligent approach to the task of solving the unemployment problem there must be available accurate information as to the extent of ACTUAL unemployment and the areas affected.

There must also be a classification which serves to distinguish between UNEMPLOYED and UNEMPLOYABLE, so that efforts toward employment may not be complicated by having to deal with cases in which, for some reason, persons are unfitted for any kind of remunerative work.

The cards for this census, being distributed by letter carriers, provide space for answers to a number of questions intended to give necessary information regarding total unemployment, part time employment, work on WPA, NYA, CCC, or other emergency projects.

In order to be of use, this information must be gathered quickly, which is the reason for limiting return of cards to this week.

As has been asked by President Roosevelt, every person who is unemployed or partly employed, should fill out the report card right away and mail it before midnight, Saturday, Nov. 20. No postage stamp is required.

"If you give me the facts," says the President, "I shall try to use them for the benefit of all who need and want work and who do not now have it."

Community Players Win Favor.

GROWTH in public appreciation of efforts of the Mansfield Community Players to develop local theatrical talent to the point of providing excellent entertainment, was evidenced last evening at Senior High School auditorium when an all-Mansfield cast presented "Libel" as first of the season's offerings, before an unusually large and thoroughly appreciative audience.

Development of acting ability, as is being done in Mansfield through activities of the Community Players, serves the two-fold purpose of supplying a need for good stage shows and also gives opportunity for a number of people to engage, as amateurs, in a pleasant avocation for which they have natural talent.

Continued encouragement of the work of the Community Players, by increasing patronage such as has thus far been noted, cannot fail to inspire participants to even greater efforts and will also assure sufficient funds to meet attendant costs of securing rights and properly staging the best available plays.

It is gratifying to note that advance sale of season tickets has this year reached the highest point thus far attained, indicating a confidence that was fully justified by the excellence of last evening's production.

Too Easy to Get Driver's License.

NOW that Ohio has advanced to the point of having a driver's license law, it appears that the next step is to tighten up on requirements, so there can be reasonable assurance that the holder of a driver's license is physically and mentally competent to drive a car.

An occurrence in Toledo a few nights ago provided an excellent illustration of the need for greater care in issuing licenses. In this case, in which two city health department employes were killed when an ambulance crashed into a truck, it was disclosed that the ambulance driver was a sufferer from paralysis of the legs and had undergone treatment for that ailment.

Recent action in Michigan tends to stiffen requirements in examination of applicants for driver's license, with a view to making sure that all motorists have at least fairly good eyes and ears: know the rules of the road and the meaning of highway signs, and how to manage a car under normal conditions.

There can be little hope for material reduction in Ohio's traffic toll until a considerable number of physically and mentally unfit drivers have been barred from streets and highways.

One Debt-Free City.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., prides itself on being the only city in the United States of 50,000 population that is now wholly out of debt. Shortly after election day, in a special ceremony, the retiring mayor and the newly elected mayor burned the last municipal bond.

In 1918 Kalamazoo had a bonded indebtedness of $438,514. In that same year it inaugurated a new form of government—the city commission manager plan, and a new financial policy—the pay-as-you-go. Since that date it has paid its current expenses and retired its bonds at the rate of $23,000 a year.

Some cities and some people are that way. They manage to live within their income and put by a little for emergencies: they have a good time but avoid waste and extravagance. It isn't common yet, among either cities or individuals, and it is even less heard of among national governments.

The American people are getting into a queer state of mind lately. Several times crowds have cheered musical programs as if they were football games.

Every country today is eager to extend its foreign trade: but as every country's idea of foreign trade is selling, not buying, they don't get very far.

Some Think 'Slight' Depression Beneficial

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Economically speaking, nobody likes a business recession.

But politically speaking, quite some few statesmen on Capitol Hill are expressing the opinion that a moderate industrial, commercial and financial setback at just this juncture is a good thing.

I do not believe that anyone (not even the bitterest anti-New Dealer) wants another serious depression. However, there undoubtedly are "antis" (Democrats as well as Republicans) who would be not at all sorry to see Rooseveltian prestige deflated a bit by a mild, temporary recession, so-called.

FEARS OF ANTIS

All hands were rejoiced, of course, at business' improvement during the Rooseveltian first term. Some contended, to be sure, that an improvement was due just then, anyway. Still it universally was desired.

What worried some folk was the thought that Rooseveltianism might be given exclusive credit for it, with a popular demand for an indefinite continuation of the New Deal system. The present White House tenant's overwhelming victory for re-election accentuated this alarm. It was so overwhelming that many democrats (I mean democrats with a little "d") were afraid the bulk of our voters had decided in favor of perpetual Rooseveltianism as a guarantee of everlasting good times.

In short, a dictatorship of sorts!

STEWARTS VIEW

I am not so positive that the average "man in the street" particularly cares what kind of a government he lives under, so long as he is prosperous.

Nevertheless, quite a group of us honestly are devoted to democracy (with a little "d") on general principles. And, mean as the things are that we say about politicians, my impression is that a sizable proportion of our senators and representatives properly classify as genuine democrats (I can't over-emphasize the item that I refer to democrats with a little "d").

By the time a citizen gets into congress he is likely to have become, more or less, a student of government, and to have become attached to our traditional system of it.

He resents any tendency, as he sees it, of the national executive authority to increase its power.

SUPPORT "SETBACK"

These are the chaps who look on a business recession (not overdone, mind you) as a not altogether unmixed evil.

They dislike the recession AS a recession, even as anyone dislikes any bad-tasting medicine that the doctor prescribes for him, but which he gulps down, all the same, in the belief that ultimately it will be good for him. He is fearful of an over-dose, too; that probably would be as injurious to him as the complaint he is trying to cure himself of—or prevent, if he isn't already suffering from it.

A dictatorial sweep is the disease which our ultra-democratic legislators are apprehensive of. Their notion is that a strictly-limited shot of recession will be calculated to counteract what they conceive to be a national danger.

No lawmaker is going to be quoted as saying that he advocates a modicum of recession—a teeny-weeny little bit of depression.

Yet that is what some lawmakers whisper into sympathetic ears, up at the capitol.

Be it understood, such political diagnosticians emphatically are homeopathists.

CAN IT BE CONTROLLED?

A homeopathic physician may hold that arsenic will benefit his patient.

But he is not crazy enough to advise the latter to take a quart of it. He prescribes it in pills the size of a pinhead.

Depression would be a quart. Recession is expected to be only a pinhead.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Nov. 17, 1917.

Large photographs showing Mansfield boys at Camp Sheridan, were displayed in News window.

Mrs. Fred Hien, Helen avenue, underwent operation at Cleveland hospital.

Dr. James A. Leonard, reformatory superintendent, was granted three-months leave of absence on account of poor health.

J. L. Graham, East Fourth street, was called to Galion by the death of his mother.

Mrs. J. C. Sell, 55, was killed and her husband injured when train hit buggy near Lucas.

Mrs. Mabel Leiter, 87 East First street, sustained broken arm in auto accident.

Akron South defeated Mansfield high school at fairgrounds by 28-7 score.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Nov. 17, 1932.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Cotter, 83, widow of Henry Cotter, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. R. Burns in Cleveland.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ackerman, 159 Penn avenue.

Mrs. Walter Harris was hostess at a party honoring Miss Germaine Pifher bride-elect.

J. B. Woerth moved from 28 Edwards avenue to Woodland.

Mary Crist and J. K. James, Mansfield, applied for a marriage license naming Rev. L. A. Spring to officiate.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harbaugh, 208 Helen avenue, were called to Miami university by the illness of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Harbaugh.

TODAY IS—

Wednesday, Nov. 17: St. Hugh's day. Repentance day in Germany. This week's morning stars: Venus, Neptune; evening stars: Mercury, Saturn, Uranus, Mars, Jupiter. Full moon in partial eclipse visible generally throughout North America between midnight and dawn Thursday.

The Quiet Trail.

YOU come upon it at the turn of the little trail which leads from the highway.

The highway is a busy place, and noisy. All day and all night the traffic roars by. Racing speedsters, rumbling trucks loaded with fruit, lumber and hay. Gypsy caravans. Box cars with blooded horses going down to the races. Enormous machines, crawling by creaking inches up to the mines. Terrible tanks of sudden death which all the other cars avoid.

All day the horns and mufflers hoot and bellow, snarl and shriek. Hoboes and bindle men plug along, head down under the blasting sun, or stand wearily, thumbing for a ride—the sweat spreading in dark blotches across their sour, faded shirts. And at night the road houses spill great gouts of crude color—scarlet, yellow and green—along the wet, black asphalt...and the drunken shouts and laughter slobber out into the darkness.

A busy place, the highway—filled with clamor and pressure and the reek of hot oil, hot bodies. A hurried, worried loop of screeching asphalt, hurling itself insanely past the blur of woodland and meadow, vineyard and field—and the dip in the tangled weeds where the little trail begins.

It is not easy to find the trail. Most pass without ever seeing it. Only a vague line at first, faltering through the grass, fumbling across the rutted earth of the resting fields—rising, between scrub oak and tumbled rock, up and over the hill—

Then, suddenly, the heat and haste are all behind you, and you are in a cool, quiet place, walled around with trees. In the spring this place is blue and sweet with lupine, and the plaques of turquoise sky lie embedded in the peacock dark ceiling of the pines. But now it is autumn, and the place is floored with dry grass, fine as golden floss, and russet fern. Above the grass the light lies low and thick as honey. The oaks glow like new copper in the setting sun. Against their deep mahogany shadow the pine boles rise in pinkish columns, up and up, through the pale smoke of the needles, to the still brightness of the sky.

There are few sounds. A cow bell jangles and a jay bird squalls. The tinkle of a brook half drowned in leaves, a thread of silver through the warp of gold.

But all the fragrance of the fall is now released. The tang of pine ...the willows' sharp, clean breath ...the lusty odor of the moistened earth. Stronger than all, the heady must of grapes. The air is purple with their ripened bloom...the sunset gullies drip with ruddy wine.

So still! So clean and healing, this small place apart. My body lets its worried tension ease. The clamor quiets in my restless brain. The pent up pain and hate drain slowly from my heart.

I rest. I lose myself. I am at peace. I am again a part of the good earth...I rest and root within its deep, sure strength. My mind forgets its nagging fears and doubts. Once more I give my spirit back to Life. I lay my scarred and sullied self aside...I rest and wait within the hand of God.

From Farm To City.

The farm-to-city and back-to-the-farm movements are like ebb and flow tides, except that they are irregular and unpredictable in their phenomena. In the 1920's an unprecedented industrial boom that culminated in 1929 was drawing workers from the country to the cities. It was the subject of much unfavorable comment. After 1929 there were no more decreases in farm population until 1936, in which year 1,166,000 persons left the farms for the cities and 749,000 went from the cities to the farms.

Interest in the old debate about the significance of population shifts is revived by indication of the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics, that unless the remaining two months shall change it, 1937 will record the movement to the cities as still outweighing the counter movement. The effect on agriculture is of minor consideration today, with fears of overproduction concerning the government, but it is a more serious problem than ever for the cities, where any industrial decline will augment the old or set up new relief problems.—Minneapolis Journal.

Keeping Step

By LESLIE EICHEL

Congress May Stampede In Fear.

IT IS A TRAGIC congress that sits in special session. Tragic because it is bewildered, because in a stampede of fear it may make matters far worse, set the welfare of the people back for many years.

It is bewildered—as are many persons—because is sees increasing want amidst increasing plenty. We have the greatest crops on record, and yet 11 million persons have not enough money to buy sufficient food. We have the greatest factory system in the history of the world, where goods can be made more reasonably than anywhere else in the world (because of mass production), yet plants stand idle once again while people need clothing.

It is bewildered because capital demands a free hand, labor demands wage minimums and restricted hours, farmers demand a pegged high price and the hungry demand food, clothing, shelter.

It is bewildered because those who pay taxes demand lower taxes; and those who can be aided only through taxes may rise up if their relief is cut any further.

Finally, it (congress) is bewildered because the president, a great humanitarian, really eager for an accolade from all sides, thus trying to please here and there and yet with a hope of somehow helping the "submerged third," has no definite route to his objective.

A concrete plan, whether it be "right" or "wrong," would give stability to the nation. It could be praised or attacked, chiseled into something else, or added to, or remain as conceived, but so long as it was a definite plan, the army could march forward with less fear, and less danger of rout.

That is the view one obtains from people on "all sides of the fence."

DRUGS LOSE POTENCIES

President Roosevelt, eager for (a) a state of prosperity, and (b) happiness for the greatest number, has more often grasped at expediencies than taken the long, hard course.

Paradoxical as it may seem, he is on the same side as his adversaries in that he desires to achieve his objectives without great change. That is why he has preferred the expedient of "cure by drugs" rather than operation.

Now, once more, an economic convulsion is upon the nation, as it is upon many other nations, no matter their political complexions.

And new expedients are being sought—not only here, but in other lands.

But the entire matter resolves down to this: In a world of abundancy, vast segments of the population, indeed entire nations suffer from want.

The largest single group of unemployed exist in a nation which has the largest stores of food, the greatest amount of natural resources, and the biggest monetary stock.

Raising taxes here, lowering there, giving stimulants to housing, to railroads, to farmers, making rigid hours for wages and labor, making more lenient laws for public utility monopolies will in no sense bring permanent relief. Neither will non-interference with Wall Street or even business in general.

The cautious investor already has appraised these possibilities. His fear penetrates to a greater depth. He, perhaps more than anybody else, senses that a change may be necessary.

WHAT CHANGE?

I have read innumerable economic dissertations — from the extreme left to the extreme right. Not one believes it is possible to return where we were. Not one desires it.

Some see hope only in socialistic control of industry, of all natural resources, of all food—or what amounts to that.

Some favor government subsidies and control of industries, to bring about steady operation and thereby reduce unit costs so that the entire population can be employed and can buy. This, of course, is state capitalism — and eventual nationalization.

In all these dissertations there is some form of regulation by the government; not less than now, always more.

Further, there is this advice from every economic adviser, left or right, or in between — there must be world economic and monetary understanding. Without that, there can be no trade.

In any event, the domestic situation is seen as offering no solution unless the "underprivileged" share in the vast resources we have—not through gift, or bounty or outright distribution, but through the legitimate processes of employment and trade.

It is foreseen that some method whereby plants will be operated under government supervision for service rather than for profits in order to employ people, produce products needed and provide purchasing power may be resorted to. Private monopoly also may be invalidated.

If President Roosevelt uses expedients, it probably is because he is trying to avoid any approach to this. And congress probably has given no thought at all. But the cautious investor has been observing world trends.

Letters From Our Readers

More About Ramsay MacDonald

Editor News-Journal:—

The eagerness to draw dramatic comparisons in Saturday's column "Not That It Matters" has caused the columnist to unthinkingly create false impressions and to besmirch the memory of a great statesman:

"Resume: Ramsay MacDonald, illegitimate child born and raised in abject poverty, and with no educational advantages, rose to be prime minister of England three times. . . ."

The authority of Encyclopaedia Britannica tells us that Ramsay MacDonald was born in October of 1866 in Lossiemouth, Scotland —the son of a laborer.

In all of his stormy political career, his bitterest enemies never stooped so low as to question the parentage of Ramsay MacDonald. Your columnist may have inside information regarding the legitimacy of his birth in the year of 1866, that is not generally known to the rest of the world—or, maybe if such a thing were true, the rest of the world has forgotten it in the reflection of a life well spent in the service of mankind.

It is misleading to assume that Ramsay MacDonald was "born and raised in abject poverty". In poverty—yes! Poverty of the material things that were utterly insignificant when he was surrounded by a wealth of folk lore, spirit and imagination. One biographer has written of him:

"The talk of his grandmother was as good as a library, she brought him in contact with the inspiring men and deeds of the past; but so soon as the little lad could read, he searched out all the books the place afforded."

These are the mystic influences that create character and idealism in men and women. From such poverty-stricken homes come the Abraham Lincolns and the Ramsay MacDonalds. This quality of poverty is never, never "abject".

The statement "with no educational advantages" must be clarified to prevent false impressions. The boy Ramsay finished his elementary education in the village school and continued in the same school as a pupil-teacher. Proceeding to London at the age of 19, his studies were continued in evening schools, backed up by an intensive reading of the works of science. Perhaps such a meager and restricted education did not especially befit him for his work as a journalist, yet his editorials, books on political economics, and biographical works indicate that he was fairly successful as a writer.

Some of our institutions of higher learning might well study such "educational disadvantages" to the benefit of its students, and the well-being of our educational system. "Education", said Dr. John Hibben, former President of Princeton University, "is the ability to meet life's situations". On this analysis, Ramsay MacDonald was thoroughly educated.

Wishing to be constructive—and not critical—may I correct the columnist in one other statement? There is no such office as the "prime minister of England." Ramsay was three times "Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, abbreviated title — "Prime Minister of Great Britain".

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

When Do We Grow?

SOMETIMES a man asks himself, "Have I grown in stature in these last 10 years?" Some woman says to herself, "Am I finer, wiser, than I used to be?"

And if the answer is yes, then we wonder how we grew and when we grew and how the miracle was accomplished.

We think we grew in the moments of excitement and outward change, when the necessity for struggle is upon us, and we are fighting our way through life in the company of other men.

But I do not think that we grow in action only. The tall corn on our great midwestern plains grows in the night. In the warm summer evenings when men are sleeping and all the little animals of the night are prowling, then the corn-stalks thicken and reach up—and the farmers can come forth in the morning and see how much his corn has grown since the sun went down.

The corn grows in the day—could not grow at all if there were no beneficient sun—but it's most active time seems to be in the quiet darkness of the night.

And as it is with the sun, so it is with human beings. We think we grow in the great and dramatic moments of action when all our strength and all our courage and all our philosophy are required of us.

But we attain our destined stature only when we are by ourselves, when we step aside from the crowd, into silence and darkness, contemplate ourselves and our experience and ask: "What is the meaning of this? What am I doing? Where am I going? And what shall be the harvest of all this loud endeavor?

When we ask WHY and find an answer to our questions, then we grow. When we discover the significance of our actions, then we learn whether the victory was an achievement, or the seeming defeat was in the fact a fruitful conquest.

And if we never step aside into the quiet darkness, if we never ask WHERE and WHY and HOW, then our lives are sterile and insignificant — and though we have lived, we have not grown.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THERE is a popular belief that newspapermen are inarticulate when called upon to speak. Many are, but not all. No one is more deft on his banquet feet than Bugs Baer. Bill Corum is glib, witty and informative and Lowell Thomas is an accomplished toastmaster.

O. O. McIntyre

Young Will Hearst has developed into a first rate talker, and Maury Paul, the society scribbler, is almost another Frank Crowninshield. And, of course, there's Irvin Cobb. But after-dinner speaking generally languishes. Chiefly because the banquet idea is passe.

They become pretty much a racket with an over-abundance of windy oratorical bores. So much so the expert after-dinner speaker refused to speak save for a fixed price. Organizers of dinners had elaborate offices and hired high pressure boys to turn on the steam at $10 a plate.

Thus the public dinner became a nuisance and was looked upon with suspicion even when on the level. Today the better speeches are made at luncheons and are limited to three minutes. They are mostly fast quips and personal sallies—which is as it should be.

Dog haters did not get to first base with their plan to drive dogs from New York. Their first peep brought such an avalanche of protest they retired in confusion. Dog lovers countered with their own "better world" campaign—to stop smoking and chewing tobacco on the streets and in cafes, the radio at eleven o'clock at night, heavy fines for frightening the gee-whiz out of innocents with sudden blasts of auto horns, and a list of about 50 other disregarded daily nuisances far more annoying than a dog on a leash. It is pointed out that dogs do not do one half of one per cent of the damage done by careless and drunken motorists, and nothing is done to drive them from cities.

Among current heart throbs around the broadcasting studios is Tommy Riggs, whose voice is also that of the wistful Betty Lou. Riggs is a college graduate, 29 years old and not only has a build of a fullback, but a Grecian profile and a natural marcelle. He is a graduate of Ohio State, and his home is in Pittsburgh. He is considered the radio find of the year.

Glib gabbery: Clem McCarthy talks 40 words a minute, faster than even Floyd Gibbons. The two machine-gun spielers are friends and often huddle over a midnight hamburger to swap experiences, and it sounds like water rushing over a dam. In his chatter-box monologue days in vaudeville Julius Tannen was about the fastest talker of his day. But the champ talker, I understand, is a woman radio announcer in Paris. She doubles McCarthy's record with a few words to spare.

So many radio stars have to overcome the handicap of harsh sounding voices. H. V. Kaltenborn and Fred Allen, for example. The most irritating to my mind, and apparently deliberately, are the yowlings of Martha Raye. It is no voice for a home that likes peace and quietude, yet radio sum-ups, indicate a popularity. The most pleasant and soothing male voice on stage or radio is that of Herbert Marshall. And my choice among the ladies is the well-modulated tone of the announcer Rosalind for that musical program on the air called "The Hour of Charm."

While driving one night through the Charlottenburg suburb of Berlin, I heard a feminine laugh from a park bench that set the whole night a-sparkle. It was a blending of exquisite tone, joy and abandon. And was appreciated by a gentleman with me who expressed his feeling poetically with "That might be one who, expecting hell, suddenly arrived in heaven."

My flinch from harsh voices is doubtless a reaction from a year or so of servitude under a managing editor Simon Legree, who roared and pounded the desk for no reason other than to show he was boss. Every time he barked I recoiled like a lizard at sudden touch. Slinking, cowering. So much self respect did I lose under his despotism that with the last half-gill of courage I quit and came to New York. So perhaps I owe him a lot. Had I remained I would probably be the shriveled and tittupy figure in the far corner desk, darting in and out rabbit-like, for fear if the editor saw me he would be reminded I was on the payroll and strike my name off. There's one in every editorial room.

SAYS EXCHANGE MIRRORS STOCK BUYERS' VIEWS

Market Representative Cites Federal Regulation of Market Trading.

The New York stock exchange has no influence on security prices, but it only a mirror of the opinion of buyers of stocks, Jason Westerfield, special representative of the exchange told a gathering of about 80 Mansfield civic and luncheon club members at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at noon today.

But that mirror is not now presenting an absolutely true picture of that opinion, Westerfield continued, and cited a recent talk by Winthrop Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank as his authority.

Hits U. S. Regulations.

Aldrich, president of one of the largest and most powerful banks in the world, said in a speech last month in Rochester, N. Y., that unwise federal regulation of the stock exchange had impaired banks, national and local taxing authorities, building industry and that this regulation had had the effect of causing the stock exchange to take on the appearance of a "distorted mirror" of the opinion of security buyers and sellers.

He also quoted Aldrich as saying that federal regulations were chiefly responsible for the recent business recession, which was reflected in security prices on the stock exchange.

Speaking of the operation of the New York Stock exchange, which was organized in 1792, Westerfield compared it to the daily trip of the housewife to the food market. The security buyer, he said, may not be able to see what he is buying, but the stock exchange has the information available for him concerning every issue of stock sold through it, and through its elaborate machinery, can handle a stock transaction for him just as if he were on the floor of the exchange himself.

"There is no secret trading on the exchange," Westerfield said, "the phrase 'Open covenants, openly arrived at' was coined by three board of governors of the exchange long before it was used in a political sense.

Forbids Excess Profit.

"The rules of the exchange also forbid any broken member from making any profit on any transaction for a client other than the stipulated and agreed on brokerage percentage."

He explained that before any stock may be sold on the exchange, the company issuing it must answer a questionnaire which goes into all financial angles of the company, and that none of that information is withheld from anyone who wishes to obtain it.

As an example of the speed with which transactions can be handled, he said that in on instance a stock transaction ordered from San Francisco had been completed within 60 seconds of the time of the order was placed, including the time necessary to confirm the transaction back to San Francisco.

Westerfield was introduced by Clarence Luft, manager of the Mansfield office of Vercoe and company. Presiding at the meeting was George C. Kyle, president of the Optimist club.

The meeting was a joint one of Optimists and Gyros with members of Rotary, Kiwanis, Hermits and Amima also attending.

Washington—(AP)—The next American Federation of Labor-Committee for Industrial Organization meeting to discuss peace terms will be held Monday, Nov. 29.

A meeting of representatives of the two labor organizations planned for tomorrow was postponed because of other engagements of the conferees.

JOAN TELLS OF HER TWO AIMS

Happy Domestic Life, Right Kind of Pictures Her Main Interests, She Says.

with a wide-open baby stare and a pert flippness—instead a small and sedate person with extremely blue eyes, a disarming smile and a warm friendly greeting met me at the door.

But there was no mistaking her. I think you would know her if you met her at the corner of 42nd and Broadway, New York, or the corner of Main street and Park avenue, Mansfield.

Her lovely figure, one of the most perfect in Hollywood, could not be concealed by the figured house pajamas she was wearing; long, slender hands were tipped with bright red nails, and were matched by toe nails of the same shade, which were apparent in her open sandals. On her left hand was the diamond circlet and the huge star sapphire and diamond ring Dick Powell had given her.

She was nursing a blistered heel (all the glamor in the world won't keep a blister away if your shoe rubs) and was recovering from the strenuous greeting that Clevelanders and Auto Show visitors have given her and her famous husband this week.

She has two absorbing interests in life, getting the kind of pictures she wants to make, and keeping her domestic life on an even keel. Although she was born back stage — figuratively —and her mother's wardrobe trunk served as her cradle many times, she has a passion for a home; a permanent home where there are pictures and deep chairs, a wide, airy room and big yard for a baby to play. She doesn't want young Norman, her three-year-old son, to sleep on a wardrobe trunk.

But it isn't so easy as it sounds. Right now Dick and Joan are both concerned about finding another home and selling the beautiful one in Beverly Hills High walls are not permitted in Beverly, and so there is no way to keep out the sightseers, the passengers of the "rubber neck wagons" who want to see where the stars live. The Powells are looking for a lot, far off the beaten path, where they can have some semblance of a normal life for themselves and the boy.

And Norman, according to his mother, is something of a card. He is at the stage of development where he picks up everything he hears. "Some of which he shouldn't" his mother commented dryly. He is fairly famous in the film colony as the best thinker-upper of excuses for not taking an afternoon nap

You can't talk to the petite star without believing that she is deeply sincere about making a success of her marriage to Powell. Her first marriage, with George Barnes, expert cameraman, and father of her son, ended where most Hollywood marriages end —divorce court.

"You can't make a success of a marriage and ride on the Hollywood merry-go-round," she said earnestly. "And Dick and I aren't making that mistake. We go to very few parties and then only small ones with old friends. Since we have the new boat most of our leisure is spent on it, fishing. But when we are working we have an iron clad rule to be in bed by 10:30. We both hurry home and by the time we get our make-up off, dinner is ready. We play with the baby for a half hour before we put him to bed, and then we read or study our lines until about ten o'clock.

"One of the greatest contributing factors to broken marriages in Hollywood is publicity. Columnists, press agents and magazine writers must live, and while they keep us before the public, they aren't always particular how they do it. A man may pick up his favorite column and read that his wife was at the Cafe Lamaze with the handsome so-and-so. Nine times out of ten there isn't a word of truth in it. It's just 'filler' for the writer, and the husband knows it, but being human, it gets under his skin. Only in recent months is Hollywood taking concerted action to stop that sort of thing, both in print and over the radio."

Joan Blondell is a determined young woman. It was evident in her eyes when she told of her battle for better pictures. "I had made those gold-digging comedies with Glenda Farrell so long that the public didn't know which was Glenda and which was Joan. Finally the day came when I couldn't take it an instant longer Glenda is a grand girl, but I wanted to be me. I parked myself in the office and said, 'I can't gold dig another dig. I'd like to, but I can't. I'm like a person who is gorged with food and can't take another mouthful.' I guess I must have convinced them, and I think they agree with me now that it was best for both of us to make the break."

And since that one-woman mutiny, the Good Ship Blondell has been sailing merrily along, with such pictures as "The King and the Chorus Girl," with Errol Flynn in "The Perfect Specimen," and currently, co-starred with Leslie Howard in "Stand-In."

It has been a long way for the little trouper who has been in the show business all of her life; who once did a song and dance act in vaudeville with a red-headed kid by the name of Jimmy Cagney, and who now can stand firmly on her two stunning legs and share equally the acting honors with the best the American screen has to offer. As a matter of fact, I have a hunch that she will be greater box office attraction in "Stand-In" than her co-star.

3-HOUR DRAMA WINS APPLAUSE

Players Score In Presentation of 'Libel,' First Play of 12th Season.

off with the show had the other roles been in less capable hands.

They were Charles Newcomb, who played the little French surgeon, and Russell Tither as the becurled and dignified judge. Newcomb, who has had experience in theatricals, gave a smooth, professional touch to the excitable and voluable Frenchman. Tithel's work was the more noteworthy because he had a role so entirely foreign to his personality. The unconscious humor of his lines kept a comedy note running through the dramatic action.

Ferd Loykovich, who has appeared in other Community plays, as the rascally Canadian veteran who had blackmailed Lodden, provided a dramatic highlight with his direct accusation of murder, and also one of the best performances of the evening

Miss Kathleen Sturges, making her debut with last night's performance, did a neat bit of character work as the woman who brought the charge of bigamy against Lodden.

Juanita Lodde (Mrs. V. H. Lodde), who is popular as a dramatic reader in Mansfield club circles, also made her first appearance with the Players, giving an intelligent interpretation to the role of Lodden's wife. It was a dramatic role, played without undue heroics.

Two other major players who won the approval of the audience were Aloysius Stefanek and Ruhland Isaly as the two principal counsels in the case. They had long passages of dialogue in which they held the intense interest of the audience, which in itself was a tribute.

Assistant counsels, who played smaller roles well were William Callen and Herbert Slough. The latter had one "big moment" at the climax when he identified Lodden as a former school mate at Eton.

There were a number of minor players who added to the play's interest—Paul Bell as the unknown German soldier whose mind had been destroyed in the war; Herals Swank as Major Brampton, a witness; David Reese, a court attache, and Robert Parker, John McCann, Marguerite Koerper, Walter Jordan, Henry Niedhammer, and Eleanor McCann as courtroom "atmosphere."

Unseen, but with their work evident throughout the play, were Helen Bacon, director, who has worked for weeks on perfecting the players, and Frank Forshee, stage manager, who made the stage setting.

The Community Players orchestra, under the direction of Laurence Todd, gave musical background to the occasion, with a well selected prologue and between scenes numbers.

MEET IN CITY

Officials From 7 Counties to Convene Here Tomorrow.

Richland county will be host tomorrow to approximately 90 county officials and contractors from seven north central Ohio counties at a luncheon meeting of the district Auditors', Commissioners' and Engineers' association at the Fairway, near Galion.

C. J Duncan, secretary of the Ohio Contractors' association, will be the principal speaker at the meeting which is in charge of County Engineer H. C. Sword, secretary of the district organization.

Duncan will discuss the future of road building in Ohio and the prospects for the 1938 financial program

The program will follow a luncheon at 12:15 p. m.

50 GET AWARDS

Boy Scouts to Receive Advancements at Court of Honor.

More than 50 Mansfield Boy Scouts will receive advancement and merit madge awards at a court of honor Friday night in the lodge room at the Elks home.

Awards to be given will include first and second class and various merit badges. The court will begin at 7:30 p. m. and will be in charge of J. Leo Hartmann, chairman of the court of honor.

3 BOYS INJURED IN 3 ACCIDENTS

Struck by Cars While Crossing City Streets; None of Trio Hurt Seriously.

Three Mansfield boys, the oldest of which is 13 were injured, none seriously, in three different accidents reported to the police last night.

Harry Smith, 227 Newman street, reported to the police that while he was driving on North Mulberry street near Temple court yesterday afternoon, his car struck a small boy who dashed from between two parked machines.

He said that the boy refused to give his name or be taken to a physician. Arthur McPeek, 36½ West Fourth street later reported to the police station that his son Roy, 7, was the child who was hit.

William Ackerman, 259 South Main street, told police that his car struck Richard Simon, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Simon, 144 Blymyer avenue, as the boy darted in front of his car at the intersection of Sturges avenue and Park avenue west.

The boy was taken to a physician's office and treated for bruises and a leg injury.

William Jenkins, 11, who gave his address as 206 North Mulberry street, told police last night that he was run down by an auto as he was crossing West Second street at Mulberry. He said the driver of the car failed to stop He suffered a leg injury.

Investigation by police today revealed that the driver, DeWight Hodson, R. D. 5, Mansfield, had pulled his car into a filling station on the corner and gone back but could not locate the boy. He was not held by police.

HOLDS FESTIVAL

Woodland P. T. A. to Sponsor Supper at Building Friday.

The Woodland P.T.A. will sponsor a fall festival Friday evening at the school building, with a supper at 5:15 p. m. opening the program, according to Mrs. James Rizer, general chairman. Other features will include a motion picture show, contests, a fish pond and carnival attractions.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are Mrs. C. H. Bell, Mrs. Jacob Roelof, Mrs. W. C. Beattie, Mrs. Roy Winters, Mrs. George Loesch, Mrs. Frank Wendt, Charles Beelman and C. A. Divelbiss.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

ASSERTS SLAIN G.O.P. LEADER WAS DRINKING

Sheriff's Former Secretary Called Back on Stand at Pomeroy Murder Trial.

POMEROY—(AP)—Miss Annette Ashworth, former secretary to Sheriff Roscoe O. Fowler, was recalled to the witness stand today after she had testified Lafe Williamson, Meigs county political leader, was "tight" at a fraternal party on the night he was found in the street fatally injured.

The state contends Williamson was blackjacked at the party and the suspended sheriff is on trial for second degree murder. Miss Ashworth, whom Fowler escorted to the party with Mrs. Marcella Hodge, pretty divorcee, said that the politician addressed her as she was leaving the lodge hall and added:

"He was tight and I didn't want to talk with him."

Denies 'Last Dance.'

Earlier Mrs. Hodge had denied that she danced the "Home Sweet Home" dance with Williamson as other witnesses had testified. Defense counsel, attempting to show that there was no enmity between the Democratic sheriff and the Republican politician, asked:

"Did Lafe Williamson at any time insult or attempt to insult you that night?"

"No," replied Mrs. Hodge.

"Did he at any time make any improper suggestions to you?"

"No."

Defense counsel vigorously attacked the competency of previous testimony by Dr. Charles E. Holzer of Gallipolis in which he quoted Williamson as saying shortly before his death on July 17:

"Fowler got me."

Yesterday, after the jury had been excused twice from the trial room Dr. Holzer testified that in a recent case in his care, a man who suffered a skull fracture similar to Williamson's could not recall events accurately for some period prior to the accident.

"Was this patient able or unable to recall the incidents immediately surrounding his injury?" defense counsel asked.

"He was unable to recall anything as to the cause," replied Dr. Holzer.

"What did he say was the cause?"

"This patient said his injury was caused by the bombing of three Japanese single-seated airplanes," Dr. Holzer said.

Giant Hamburger, His Birthday Gift

RICHMOND, Ind. — (AP) — Asked by friends what he wished for his birthday, Malcolm Parshall, 22, laughed and said, "a hamburger."

He got it. The sandwich was 14 inches in diameter, two and a half inches thick and contained two and a half pounds of hamburger.

2 Autos and Wrecker Involved In Accident West of City.

An accident involving two automobiles and a wrecker at 12:30 a. m. today near the Roxy Inn just west of the city, resulted in minor injuries to James Daley, 92 Gibson street, a passenger in one of the cars, according to reports to Sheriff E P. Long.

Daley, riding with Gilbert Logan, of 45 Wolfe avenue, suffered cuts and bruises on his face when Logan's car collided with a Shelly Smith wrecker and a car driven by Roy W. Vaughn, 139 Prospect street. Neither Logan nor Vaughn was hurt. The wrecker was unoccupied.

WARN HUNTERS

Sheriff, Game Warden Refer to Trespassing Laws.

Sheriff E. P. Long and Charles I. Kimmel, county game warden, joined today in issuing a warning to hunters to stay out of residential areas near the city unless they have written permission to hunt on the properties.

"We warned five hunters in the South Boulevards section yesterday and the next complaint we have is going to lead to an arrest for trespassing if the hunter can't show his written permit," Long said.

Kimmel called attention to the penalty for trespassing which may be a fine of from $10 to $50 or the maximum fine and the loss of the hunter's license for one year in the cases of second offenders.

No hunting arrests have been made here as yet, they said.

AERIAL POWER OF CHINA SET AT 850 PLANES

Pacific Relations Institute Finds Country's Fleet Has Doubled Since War.

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—A significant strengthening of China's air defense by importation of large numbers of foreign-made aircraft is disclosed by the American council, Institute of Pacific Relations.

According to the council's report, a steadily increasing number of fast fighting planes have been imported into China in undisclosed quantities from several countries, including the United States, France and Great Britain.

Because Chinese pilots are more proficient in handling light pursuit planes than heavy bombers and also because of the enormous cost of the larger planes, the Chinese government does not favor an increase in the number of bombers, which it holds are largely weapons of attack, the council report said.

Most of the planes imported by China from foreign nations are assertedly light and fast pursuit ships capable of high speed and maximum offensive combat power.

Fliers More Proficient.

Chinese pilots were strongly handicapped at the beginning of the war, according to the report, by the resignation of many American instructors and mechanics. This handicap in handling aircraft, the report said, which resulted in many accidents in the early days of the conflict, has largely diminished. However, it is pointed out, Chinese pilots are better in manipulating light pursuit planes than heavy bombers.

The council report pointed out that there has been no confirmation of rumors that foreign pilots are participating in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

At the outbreak of hostilities many flying instructors' positions in the army and navy air forces were filled by foreigners, but the positions are being filled in gradually by Chinese officers. Foreign instructors devote an increasing part of their time to the teaching of mechanics.

Citing recent engagements in Shanghai and in Shansi when a number of the newly-imported planes were dispatched to the front, the report said: "Chinese pilots showed themselves equipped to operate these machines in actual fighting."

"Although the Japanese, who have a number of aircraft carriers off the China coast and several large airfields on Chinese territory, outnumber the Chinese in this field, they have not yet been able to obtain complete mastery of the air," the authors said.

DEPOSITS CROSS OCEAN

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Retired Steel Worker Is Feeling Years Younger

Says World's Tonic Was Just What He Needed.

Never Has Those Awful Shooting Pains in Back and Joints, Since It Relieved His Stomach Trouble

It is impossible to exaggerate the danger of constipation to one's health. Many of mankind's most painful ailments are caused either directly or indirectly by sluggish bowel action. World's Tonic contains several natural ingredients which make it especially effective to aid people suffering in this manner; and everyone who is suffering with stomach trouble and the many aches and pains it causes, should lose no time in learning more about how it will help them.

Mr. J. H. Howell, of 212 Charles St., Massillon, O., has this to say about World's Tonic: "This new medicine was just what my bowels needed to give me a thorough cleaning out and it did it so nicely that I am feeling years younger.

"I had been troubled by aching, nagging pains in my back, something like lumbago, that traveled up and down my back, legs and to my knees. My muscles and joints felt sore. I was often dizzy; spots danced before my eyes. If I would stoop over, the blood would rush to my head like as if I had high blood pressure and my stomach was upset.

"It is remarkable how these pains disappeared and the dizziness passed off after World's Tonic relieved my constipation. I really feel fine now and have advised some relatives and friends to begin taking World's Tonic and this goes for everyone who suffers like I did."

World's Tonic is intended as a general medicine and does not require you to buy extra tablets or pills to get results.
